City's I.W.A. Local 'Not Too Happy' Over Settlement

Failure To Obtain Union Shop Said Most Disappointing Point

Victoria local of the I.W.A. is "not too happy" over outcome of the dispute with logging operators on a new working agreement.

Failure of the woodworkers to obtain a union shop was the most disappointing feature and a fight next year for this concession was predicted.

Said Ed Haw, organizer of the Victoria area Local 1-118 of the union: "The union shop will be one of our main objectives in negotiations next year."

On the 12th cents hourly wage increase granted, the organizer commented: "We didn't get any more than was coming to us; in fact we didn't get what was coming to us."

At Vancouver officials of the C.I.O. International came out of their continuous, nine-hour mediation session with government and company representatives to say it was in their best interests, and those of the province generally, that they accept a compromise 1950 contract.

The strike, for higher pay, shorter hours and a union shop, was to have begun between 7 and 8 a.m. local time in coastal lumber mills and plants on the mainland, Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes.

LESS THAN ASKED

The union settled for less than the general 17-cent hourly pay raise, five-day, 40-hour week and union shop it had demanded. Pending ratification by rank and file members, a union policy committee accepted 163 companies' offer of a 12-cent boost, a 40-hour week and a "maintenance of membership" clause in the new contract.

Union officials said the clause provided that all loggers, bunkhouse workers and other men affected who belonged to the union when the agreement was signed would have to stay members for its duration.

Stewart Alsbury, the union's district president, and R. V. Stuart, representing the operators, both announced they were satisfied with the terms.

Alsbury said the agreement seemed "pretty good."

Stuart, an official of Forest Industrial Relations which represented the companies, said the settlement was "a source of satisfaction to employers in the forest industry." He added, "The extensive concessions made have prevented this province being injured by a work stoppage in its most vital industry."

The woodworking industry earns 40 cents out of every dollar in British Columbia. A strike would have dealt a body blow to much of Canada's timber export to Britain, as well as Canadian housing projects.

Merchants in upcoast areas and on Vancouver Island and Queen Charlotte Island hailed the settlement.

Czech Killed In Nuernberg Riot

NUERNBERG (UP)—One Czech was killed Wednesday night and several German police injured during a riot at a displaced persons' camp on the outskirts of Nuernberg.

The riot started when several hundred Czechs surrounded the office of the camp's German administrators to protest their transfer to another camp.

Second French Airliner Crashes In Middle East

BAHRAIN ISLAND, Persian Gulf (CP)—A big Air France plane crashed in the Persian Gulf Wednesday night, and 40 of the 52 persons it carried are feared dead. The craft plunged into the gulf at almost the same spot where another Air France plane crashed two days ago with a loss of 46 lives.

Officials said 12 persons had been rescued by early afternoon, including four of the crew of eight. Twelve infants were reported to have been aboard the plane. Only one is known to have been saved.

This plane and the sister C-54 Skymaster which crashed two days ago were en route from Indo-China to Paris. Officials have not discarded the possibility of sabotage by adherents of the Indo-Chinese Communists who are fighting the French.

Air France officials in Paris said the plane carried 40 passengers and eight crew members. The officials said the search of the region was continuing with more than 100 small fishing boats scouring the area.

Atom Energy Facts To Be Given To Public

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today Britain, Canada and the United States are contemplating the joint release of the largest single collection of atomic-energy data since issuance of the Smyth report of 1945.

The plan is the result of the Russian atomic explosion last September, the Times says. None of the data to be placed in the public domain will deal with "atomic weapons," says a Washington dispatch to the Times.

A joint announcement of the action is expected within a few weeks, the story says, and adds: "In a sense, the move will be historic, for it will unshackle for the first time a phase of atomic power from the present government monopoly to let the American system of free enterprise see what it can make of it."

Secrets Act Penalties To Be 14 Years

New Bill Increases Possible Sentences

OTTAWA (CP)—The government announced today it is doubling the prison term provided under the Official Secrets Act, Canada's anti-spy law.

Justice Minister Garson, introducing a bill to amend the act, disclosed it will boost the maximum term from seven years to 14.

The top sentences handed out under the act in the 1946 spy prosecutions were six years.

Mr. Garson said the amendments will also:

1. Extend the act to make clear that penalties for wrong doings by employees of the Crown embrace government boards, commissions, corporations or other agencies.

2. Give the act extra-territorial effect, enabling the Crown to penalize Canadians who break it outside Canada as well as foreigners who unlawfully divulge outside Canada secret information they got here.

3. Remove any doubt that persons charged or convicted under the act may be fingerprinted.

There was no discussion on the bill as it was given first reading.

Except for the doubling of the prison penalty, the amendments are largely steps to plug loopholes discerned in a study of the act on the basis of a recommendation by the 1946 Royal Commission on espionage. Without any specific recommendations, the commission suggested the government have a look at the law and see what might be done to tighten it.

Informed quarters said no specific or overt incidents have occurred to provoke the changes.

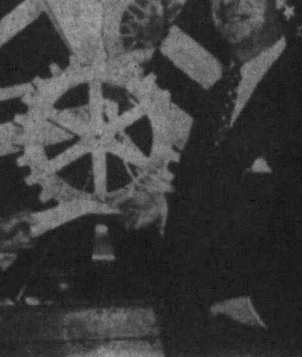

Smuts Holding Ground Gained

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuter)—Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, seriously ill on his farm near Pretoria, "spent a comfortable night," a medical bulletin said today.

Raging Macleod River In Alberta Fills Shaft

CADOMIN, Alta. (BUP)—Five coal miners were trapped here today when a mine tunnel caved in from the pounding of flood waters which threatened to isolate part of this rich coal-mining area.

A heavy run-off from nearby mountains turned the normally mild Macleod River into a raging torrent which flooded a shaft of the Cadomin Coal Company.

Three privately-owned homes were inundated and a hotel was isolated here.

Cadomin is in the heart of Alberta's Coal Branch, 71 miles southeast of Edson, a Canadian National Railway mainline point located 130 miles west of Edmonton.

An emergency train sped here from Edson with men to aid pitmen fighting to save their fellow workers.

Bridges were washed out over a 30-mile stretch from Cadomin north, it was reported.

It was feared road travel would be cut off and a C.N.R. spur line through the Coal Branch would be washed out.

Officials also feared telephone and telegraph communication may be cut off, isolating the southern part of the coal mining area.

FOOT AN HOUR
The river had risen four feet at the rate of a foot an hour as the flood struck suddenly, local authorities declared.

Eleven inches of snow in nearby mountains had melted rapidly in an 80-degree heat wave.

Workers reported flood waters had cut off fans which constantly suck away deadly coal gas in the mine pits.

Three trapped men were identified as Mike Kapp, Roy Carr, and Peter Morris. The other two trapped were tentatively identified as a Mr. Kasanovich and a Mr. Helimovich.

(An unconfirmed report in Edson said three railway section men were believed missing in the flood area.)

Millers Score Flour Buying

MANCHESTER, Eng. (Reuter)—The Daily Dispatch today reports claims by British millers that Food Minister Maurice Webb wasted $2,700,000 in dollar funds by agreeing to buy 300,000 tons of flour from Canada next year, instead of wheat to be milled here.

Canadian flour, the Conservative newspaper says, costs $102.30 a ton, and wheat only $80.60 a ton.

The millers are quoted as saying that if the milling had been done here, 53,000 tons of pig and poultry feeding stuffs would have been produced as by-products of the mills, allowing farmers to put more bacon, pork and eggs on the market.

Warm In Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Most of Ontario enjoyed bright sunshine today and temperatures in the south were expected to reach 80 degrees. Tomorrow, warm humid weather is expected.

Settlement announcement came after night-long negotiations between the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) and the Labor Relations Board. The company is not a member of Forest Industrial Relations, which negotiated with the I.W.A. for coastal operators.

It calls for a 12-cent an hour pay increase, a maintenance of membership clause and a five-day, 40-hour week. They had sought a pay increase of 17 cents an hour and a union shop.

Huge B.C. Bond Issue Sold In Only 36 Hours

It took only 36 hours for investment dealers and banks to dispose of the $26,000,000 B.C. government issue of serial and sinking fund debentures offered last Tuesday.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb announced today books of the issue were closed at 12 noon Toronto time on Wednesday.

"Response from investors, large and small, has been excellent from all parts of the Dominion," he said. "Considering the size of the issue and the low interest that the securities bear, this is most gratifying to the government."

The issue consisted of $14,000,000 1½, 2 and 2½ per cent 10-year serial debentures, and $12,000,000 3 per cent sinking fund debentures offered at 99 with accrued interest to yield 3.07 per cent.

Proceeds from the serial debentures will be used to pay B.C.'s share of the cost of developing the Trans-Canada Highway in the province and general highway reconstruction and improvement. Proceeds from the sinking fund debentures will be used to repay treasury bills issued for road and bridge projects, public building construction, U.B.C. development and Pacific Great Eastern Railway extension.

NANAIMO (CP)—The Nanaimo school district reorganization plan has been shelved for a year. The school board found there had been some public misunderstanding over the plan, and further study will be made by the finance and education committees.

Witnesses Say Dynamite Bought Supposedly For Stump Blasting

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion today closed the government's preliminary hearing against Genereux Ruest, charged with murder in last September's "bomb plot" air crash.

Judge Achille Pettigrew said he would announce at 10 a.m. tomorrow whether the 51-year-old watchmaker would be committed for trial.

Defence attorney Irene Simard declined to call any witnesses.

The hearing ended after expert witnesses for the Crown had testified that the crash of the Canadian Pacific C-47 last Sept. 9, killing 23 persons, was caused by a bomb fashioned by Ruest.

Bernard Pelet, an analytical chemist, said microscopic examination of the wreckage showed there had been an explosion of dynamite activated by a dry-cell battery.

IMPRINT OF CLOCK
Dr. Lucien Gravel, Laval University chemistry professor, said the imprint of an alarm clock was found on the wall of one of the plane's luggage compartments.

Ruest had admitted making a clock-operated time bomb for J. Albert Guay, who is under sentence of death for engineering the plot, but said he was told it would be used for blasting stumps.

Guay's wife died in the crash. The Crown contended he conceived the plot to kill her, collect her insurance and marry Marie Ange Robitaille, 19-year-old waitress.

Guay, convicted in March, was sentenced to be hanged June 23, but the date was postponed to Jan. 12, 1951, presumably to allow him to testify at Ruest's hearing.

Ruest's sister, Mrs. Marguerite Pitre, 41, who was arrested Wednesday on the prosecutor's charge she had tried to intimidate witnesses, also testified today.

PURCHASED DYNAMITE
She admitted purchasing the dynamite for the bomb, but under the impression it was used to blast tree stumps out of a field.

She also recalled how she took the bomb parcel to the airport for Guay. She had testified during the latter trial that she did not know what the package contained.

Ten days after the crash, she said, she saw Guay as he was reading a newspaper story about a mysterious woman who had taken the bomb to the airport.

Guay ordered her to commit suicide, she said. Her brother, Genereux Ruest, arrived a few minutes later.

"I was crying after Guay's order," she testified. "I told Genereux that Guay had told me to take pills, open the gas jet and kill myself. Genereux told me that if what Guay said is true, I will put a blanket over your head and open the gas stove."

OLD, SINFUL VIRGINIA CITY SAVED FROM FIRE

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP)—A providential rain early today saved this once sinful mining town from destruction by fire.

It came as flames raced through the timber-like old wooden buildings and plank sidewalks. Three old buildings, the Wells Fargo Express Co., Post Office, and the George T. Mayne Building, went up in crackling flames. The loss was $60,000. The fire started from chimney sparks.

Then suddenly came the rain, a virtual cloudburst. Quickly the flames were snuffed out.

Virginia City, built in 1862, mushroomed with 40,000 inhabitants as the fabulous Comstock lode gave up $3,000,000,000 worth of ore to the miners.

They spent their profits and earnings in having a good time and made Virginia City one of the most famous towns in the west. Now there are scarcely 600 inhabitants here.

Too Early To Say If Lumber Price Goes Up

New Agreement's Effect Not Known

Victoria contractors and lumber men do not know what effect the settlement of the I.W.A. strike may have on the price of lumber.

None would hazard a forecast as to whether an increase in price was imminent, as a result of the 12½ cent an hour pay jump for the woodworkers, agreed to last week.

See Story Page Three

proved at a last-minute parley between union officials and operators in Vancouver Wednesday night.

"It will all depend on the big operators in Vancouver," said one contractor.

A prominent local contractor said he did not think the I.W.A. settlement would result in an increase in lumber prices.

Prices were at a peak now, mainly because of a U.S. market willing to pay "through the nose."

One lumber man felt several days would elapse before anything definite was learned, stating the information would have to come from the mills.

MINISTER PLEASED
In the meantime, Labor Minister John Cates today expressed satisfaction over the settlement of the I.W.A. dispute.

"I am thankful the strike of the loggers has been averted," he said. "A strike in this industry would have been a terrible blow to our economy and its effects would have been felt by every citizen of the province."

Settlement of the dispute calls for a maintenance of membership clause and a five-day, 40-hour week, in addition to the 12½-cent pay increase.

Rivers Rising In Princeton, Terrace Areas

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Residents fled one northern town today and water spilled into the streets of three other cities as British Columbia rivers rose to the flood stage.

The Skeena River, bursting with a mountain runoff, sent swirling water into the sawmill town of U.S. Wednesday, and today 100 residents had fled to high ground.

At Terrace, 16 miles west of U.S., the Skeena was flooding suburban streets and threatening several homes. Police said a few families had fled.

The Tulameen River splashed over its banks in Princeton and surrounded several houses with one or two inches of water.

The twisting, 605-mile Fraser spread steadily over low-lying pasture land in the valley and inundated land outside areas protected by dikes near mission.

QUICK RISE
The river passed the danger level of 28 feet at Hope, B.C., Wednesday. It was expected to reach flood level today at Mission, in the heart of the usually rich and fertile valley.

Around the clock dike patrols were on duty at danger points along the river guarding against new breaks and stockpiling sandbags for a possible emergency.

British Called Isolationists

WASHINGTON (UP)—Foreign aid chief, Paul G. Hoffman, said today the British Labor Party's rejection of the French-German coal and steel pool proposal is "one of the most deplorable examples of isolationism in the worst possible form."

VOLCANO ERUPTION CAUSE OF HAZE OVER PACIFIC

HONOLULU (UP)—A health department official said today an analysis of the mysterious white haze that has blanketed more than 3,000,000 square miles of the Pacific indicated it was from some distant volcanic eruption.

The city health officer, Dr. Frederick Schramm, said the substance was 22 per cent salt, with traces of sulphuric and carbonic acid.

He ruled out the possibility that it resulted from a sandstorm, saying the particles were "too dark" to be silicates. He also said it was not of atomic origin since it was not radioactive.

Chief Honolulu airport weatherman R. H. Simpson said he "considered it unlikely" the haze had any connection with the recent eruption of Mauna Loa volcano, 200 miles southeast of here.

PEARKES SUPPORTS GOVT. ON DEFENCE

Stalks From Startled Commons After Saying Liberal Plan For Quick War Action Best

OTTAWA (CP)—An old soldier rose in rebellion today against his own Progressive Conservative Party's two-day war against giving Trade Minister Howe defence purchasing powers they consider dictatorial. He said these are times that make such powers necessary.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (P.C.-Nanaimo), spoke only for a moment and then stalked from the chamber but what he said left the Liberal members, including Mr. Howe, pounding their desks with enthusiasm.

The discussion arose on a government bill to give the Minister wide powers to requisition and obtain defence materials.

Gen. Pearkes said he only wished to say that the old concept of leisurely mobilization for defence has gone, that a nation must be ready to make war on a moment's notice and that "it is necessary to take measures for preparedness such as have never been taken before."

While he strode out and the Liberals applauded, J. M. MacDonnell (P.C.-Toronto, Greenwood) stood up and said his party was "very proud to have men who are independent."

Big Three Urge Russia Join In Austrian Treaty

PARIS (UP)—The United States, Britain and France asked Russia today to join in completing the long-delayed treaty for Russia as soon as possible.

The Big Three proposed that the Soviet's also replace their military high commissioner in Austria with a civilian, as the western powers have agreed to do.

A French note, delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Yves Chateignieu, was made public here. The foreign office said the United States and Britain presented identical notes.

One Slight Cut In Crash-Landing

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Americans and a Canadian youth escaped serious injury today when their light aircraft crash-landed in a field about three miles south of Billings Bridge.

The pilot, Willard Reitz of Kansas City, suffered a cut on his left elbow. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Exhall of Kansas City, and 18-year-old John Proulx of Sarsfield, Ont., escaped unhurt.

Atom Energy Facts To Be Given To Public

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says today Britain, Canada and the United States are contemplating the joint release of the largest, single collection of atomic-energy data since issuance of the Smyth report of 1945.

The plan is the result of the Russian atomic explosion last September, the Times says.

"None of the data to be placed in the public domain will deal with atomic weapons," says a Washington dispatch to the Times.

A joint announcement of the action is expected within a few weeks, the story says, and adds: "In a sense, the move will be historic, for it will unshackle for the first time a phase of atomic power from the present government monopoly to let the American system of free enterprise see what it can make of it."

Cadomin, Alta., Streets Inundated; Roads Cut

CADOMIN, Alta. (CP)—Five men were trapped today in a shaft of the Cadomin Coal Co. mine after a flash flood of the Maeland River inundated the mine pit and the south end of this Rocky Mountain mining town.

Trapped are: Fireboss Roy Carr and miners Mike Kapusinsky, Peter Morris, Red Kasonovich and Steve Melanovich.

Rescue crews were struggling to reach the men, entombed in the mine's east shaft.

A torrent of water rushed into the town without warning last night in the wake of three days of blistering heat which melted snow lying a foot deep on the mountainsides. This was followed by a 36-hour rain storm. The river was reported today to be rising at the rate of a foot an hour.

Thirty men were working in the mine when the water swept in. 25 got out.

One of the last to escape, Windy Sherer, said the water was up to his neck when he floundered through to the exit. He said it came through the mine ceiling.

"Water poured down the mine shaft and cut off the fans," he said. "It was terrible. We had some trouble like this at the mine last fall, but nothing as bad as this. There's been nothing like it in the last 25 years."

The water disrupted communications and transportation but as far as could be learned today the mine is not now flooded.

The south end of the town remained under water. Six houses were damaged and the hotel basement flooded. The highway linking Cadomin with towns was blocked but the rail connection to Leyland and Edson was believed still open.

The first rush of the flood into the town, 150 miles southwest of Edmonton, sent a wall of water and mud against the only exit.

Since fans circulating fresh air in the workings had been cut off, it was feared the miners may have been overcome by coal gas.

The flood washed out nearby Leyland and caused two slides on the Canadian National Railway line serving the district west of Coalspur. Two work crews were sent to clear the line.

The river was four feet above its normal level Wednesday night.

Three houses in the low-lying part of the town were ripped from their foundations and floated away. At Leyland two bridges were washed out.

Forest rangers reported 15 feet of snow covers some of the district.

Mary McIntyre Still Unconscious

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mary McIntyre, pretty Canadian-born advertising agency secretary, is still unconscious from blows she received when she was beaten June 4.

Attendants at St. Francis Hospital said, however, that she is given a good chance for recovery. The 25-year-old woman's skull was bashed in by blows with some heavy instrument.

Police have been unable to find a clue to the identity of Miss McIntyre's attacker. She came here from Vancouver, B.C., two years ago.

Saskatchewan Hunted For Slayer Of Constable

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today a man seen in Moose Jaw, Sask., had reported to resemble the slayer of R.C.M.P. constable Alex Gammann "is quite possibly our man."

Inspector Ernest Francœur, second in command of the Montreal detective office, said he would request R.C.M.P. to keep a close check in the Moose Jaw area.

Francœur's statement followed a report to the Montreal Star. This information was to the effect that a Canadian Pacific Railway constable, while checking a westbound freight, was threatened by a man brandishing an automatic pistol. The railway constable managed to get away and went for assistance. On his return the man could not be found.

Police in the Moose Jaw and Swift Current areas were reported searching all trains.

The killer of Gammann is known to have had an automatic. Gammann was shot down during an abortive bank hold-up last May 25. The slayer is known to have had a room in a small hotel here and was known as C. Loring or Loring. It is also known he headed west, police saying he was traced to Hornepayne, Ont., through a hotel key.

Jury Excluded At Edmonton Murder Trial

EDMONTON (BUP)—A six-man, all-male jury was excluded from the murder trial of Mrs. Marie Smith today, as counsel argued the admissibility or otherwise of a statement police claim she made when confronted with blood-stained money found at her apartment.

Reference counsel Guy Patterson created a trial-with-a-trial when he objected to the way Detective Sergeant James Peterson had obtained the statement.

Mr. Justice Boyd McBride was expected quickly to rule on the issue.

Peterson said in testimony that a bundle of socks containing $61.67 was found hidden at the bottom of a shopping bag filled with clothing at the 20-year-old housewife's apartment early April 29.

That was several hours after Chinese grocer Jimmy Pon was killed with a knife in his Edmonton store.

Churchill Sees Race Despite Crash

LONDON (Reuter)—Winston Churchill, driving to Ascot to see his horse Colonel II race in the Ascot Gold Cup today, escaped injuries when his car was involved in a slight collision with an escorting police car.

The mishap occurred when the police car had to pull up sharply. Churchill's car ran into the back of it. Neither car was seriously damaged.

Churchill, cheerfully puffing at his usual long cigar, got to Ascot in time for the race. His horse ran fourth.

Clyne May Be New Judge Of Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is going to provide another judge for British Columbia's Supreme Court.

The Commons was given notice today by Justice Minister Garson that a forthcoming bill to amend the Judges' Act will provide the salary for one more judge on that bench.

The new B.C. judgeship is expected to go to John V. Clyne, Vancouver lawyer who now is chairman of the Canadian Maritime Commission.

Mr. Clyne, chairman of the commission since its inception in 1948, indicated some months ago he wished to return to British Columbia. He is remaining on that job until the end of the present session.

New Envoy To Canada

Stanley Woodward, left, former State Department protocol chief, is congratulated by Secretary of State Dean Acheson after taking oath of office as U.S. ambassador to Canada. Mrs. Woodward witnessed the Washington ceremony. Woodward succeeds Laurence Steinhardt, who was killed in an airplane crash.

CARS OUST LANDMARK

Court Officials Bewail Loss Of Favorite Tree

Court officials and members of the legal profession today bemoaned the loss of one of Victoria's familiar landmarks—the old cedar tree on Bastion Square—cut down by city workmen.

The solitary tree, surrounded by some of the city's oldest buildings, has stood in Bastion Square on the west side of the courthouse, for 40 years or more. The city plans to make the square into a parking area.

Like one in pain, the tree groaned and cracked, as it came crashing down in the centre of the square.

"This tree was here before I was," said one of the workmen who was sorry to see it go. "I can remember it as a boy."

The tree's strongest friend was Chief Justice Archer Martin, who died here in 1941. He saved it from being cut down many times, and saw to it the city looked after it.

Members of the legal profession who saw the tree being cut down expressed strong disapproval with the city's action.

Old timers recalled that the tree was planted there when C.P.R. ships docked at the end of Bastion Street in front of the old Hudson's-Bay store.

"It was the only bit of green in a brick and mortar," said one lawyer.

Increasing Air Travel Seen For Vancouver Is. Residents

The opinion that in the future practically all travel will be conducted by air, was expressed by H. Cuthbert Holmes, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, at a banquet held Wednesday night in the new Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans' Club at Sidney.

In stressing the importance of air transport on Vancouver Island, Mr. Holmes said, "there are methods of travel by road and air, and in the future it will be increasingly by air."

He was addressing a member from 24 island chambers at a two-day convention which got under way at the Knights of Pythias Hall Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Holmes pointed to the lack of landing fields for aircraft as the biggest problem facing development of air travel on Vancouver Island.

"It is the duty of the Chamber of Commerce to consider these matters on a regional level and develop a united plan for our air traffic," the speaker said.

In another speech, on transportation problems, J. C. Anderson, past president of Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, made a plea for the restoration of the Sidney-Stevenson ferry service, which was canceled earlier this year.

"Every avenue of travel from the mainland should be maintained—if not extended," the speaker stressed.

Care Urged In Cutting B.C. Forests

Indiscriminate logging methods have reduced New Zealand's timber supply to a precariously low level according to Sir Robert Holland, who addressed the Victoria White Cane Club Tuesday afternoon.

He warned that British Columbia's forests might meet the same fate if more care was not taken in respect to logging operations.

Only about 16 per cent of New Zealand's forests remained, said the speaker, who returned recently from a tour of that country.

"They are getting hard up for timber, water is short in some sections and there is very little park land left," said Sir Robert.

"It is a moral to us in British Columbia not to squander our forests as we have done in the past," he added. "We are still going down hill and unless that dangerous progress is stopped, we will lose one of our most valuable assets."

About 60 per cent of all loggers caught in Canada are marketed fresh, most going to the United States.

U.S. Boy Scouts To Visit City During Week-end

An international visit by the Boy Scouts of America Troop 126 of Seattle will highlight scout activities this week-end. The Fairfield Troop of Victoria will be hosts to the visitors.

The United States scouts arrive Friday on the afternoon boat and will immediately be taken on a tour of the Parliament Buildings.

Friday night a swimming party will be held at the Crystal Garden.

The troops will be at liberty Saturday morning for a shopping tour and in the afternoon will visit the drydock at Esquimalt and H.M.C.S. Ontario. They then go to the Fairfield Troop's camp at Millstream, returning to the Scout Hall in the evening for movies and dinner.

Sunday morning a church parade to the Fairfield United Church will be held after which the visitors will be free until their boat leaves.

The local scouts went to Seattle last month as guests of the American troop.

Enrolment Record In Summer School

1,462 Already Registered For Classes Which Commence July 3

Department of Education's Summer School for teachers will open July 3 with the largest enrolment in its 37-year history.

Already 1,462 teachers are registered for classes to be held here and in Vancouver, exceeding last year's peak enrolment of 1,308.

Guest lecturers for the annual session will come from widely separated points.

From Birmingham University, England, Miss Dorothy Lampard will give special lectures in remedial reading; from New York, guest lecturers in education of deaf children will be Miss Beatrice Hodgkins and Miss Josephine Bennett; Dr. Clifford P. Froehlich of the United States Office of Education, Washington, D.C., and Dr. Edgar A. Doll, of the Vineland School, New Jersey, will conduct classes in counselling and special education; lectures in organization and administration will be given by Dr. John W. Gilles, University of Alberta; one of the largest groups at Summer School will hear Dr. John D. Gerletti of the University of Southern California in his courses on classroom management and the use of visual aids in teaching; from Oregon are coming Dr. Glenn A. Bakkum, Dr. O. R. Chambers, and Dr. Denis Baron.

Teaching methods in subject fields will be handled by Miss Cathryn M. Jones, Los Angeles Public Schools; Miss Barbara Kohler, Central College of Education, Ellensburg; and Miss Ethel M. Henson, Director of Music, Seattle Public Schools.

Among this year's innovations will be classes in the education of sub-normal children. These will be under the direction of Dr. Doll, one of the outstanding authorities in this field on the continent.

A special conference for experienced school counsellors will be held from July 3 to 14 under the direction of Dr. Clifford P.

Froehlich from Washington, D.C., where he is in charge of the counsellor training program of the United States Office of Education.

NEW COURSE

Classes for secondary school teachers who will be in charge of the new Effective Living course, to go into the high school curriculum in September, are also being held. These teachers will meet two hours daily for the five-week period to become familiar with the content of the new course and develop lesson plans.

The Commercial and Industrial Arts sections of the school will again meet in Vancouver. Also in Vancouver, the Summer School will hold its classes for teachers of deaf children. Continuing its policy of giving special help to teachers of handicapped children, begun last year, the Department of Education has engaged Miss Bennett and Miss Hodgkins of the Lexington School for the Deaf, New York, to conduct a special course at the Provincial School for the Deaf.

The majority of teachers enrolled at Summer School are from B.C., but especially large registrations have come in this year from the prairie provinces. Teachers from Ontario and the neighboring states of Washington and Oregon are also registering in increasing numbers.

For the five-week period, the Department of Education will take over the Victoria High School building, in which all classes held in Victoria will be conducted.

Leigh, Page Named To Board To Hear Carpenters' Dispute

Victor L. Leigh and William Page have been named to a conciliation board in a dispute between Victoria carpenters and the Building Industries' Exchange.

Mr. Leigh, a local contractor, is the choice of the exchange, and Mr. Page, international union representative from Vancouver, was named by the carpenters.

A chairman will be named shortly.

Matters in dispute are increases in wages and a union shop.

INCREASE OFFERED

The exchange has offered a five-cent-an-hour wage increase and union shop in a two-year agreement. The offer would bring wages to $1.60 an hour.

The union asked $1.75 an hour and later lowered this to $1.68, but not on a two-year basis.

Hope of the Labor Relations Board that the parties would agree on arbitration rather than conciliation was shattered by the carpenters who stated they do not want to be bound by the findings of a board.

U.B.C.M. Delegates

An official civic party of seven is expected to attend the annual convention of Union of B.C. Municipalities in Nelson Sept. 19 to 21.

Mayor Percy George named delegates Wednesday. Accompanying the mayor will be Aldermen Frank Mulliner, Mrs. Margaret Christie, Mrs. Hilda Baxter, Percy Scurrell and Waldo Skillings. The mayor recommended that A. J. Patton, city solicitor, be authorized to accompany the delegation.

Welfare Society officials said two cabins still require sponsors and they would welcome any organization or individual interested in filling the vacancies.

Volunteers Ready Camp For Opening Next Week

Sunshine Camp at Sooke, sponsored by Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society, has been a hive of industry as work parties from various organizations repaired, repainted and generally improved the cabins, ready for June 20 opening date.

Fifty-seven senior citizens will enjoy a holiday at the camp from June 20 to 30.

Work parties from Rotary, Anns, Ladies' Auxiliary to the United Commercial Travelers, the King's Daughters, St. Margaret's School, Kinsmen, Lions and Elks spent last week-end making improvements to cabins their organizations sponsor. Helping prepare the whole camp for occupancy was a general volunteer work party of the Y.W.C.A. members and camp staff.

Join with members of the Sightless Camp July 15 to 25. Mothers' and Children's Camp will be held from July 28 to August 7. The Children's Camp will be limited to boys from 6 to 10 and girls, 6 to 12. The camp from August 9 to 19 is open to all ages and both sexes.

Jan Fleming is program director assisted by Doreen Woods, Nora Mayne, Janet Bartholomew, Doreen Roy and Annabelle Keane.

Wickett President Of Insurance Agents

F. Dudley Wickett was elected president of the Victoria Insurance Agents' Association at the 30th annual meeting and dinner Wednesday evening at the Monterey Restaurant.

Others named to posts were: H. P. R. Brown, vice-president; Lt.-Col. J. Nelson Gibson, honorary secretary-treasurer, and C. R. Turner, G. G. Fraser, J. V. Harbord, W. J. Clark, G. S. Brown, F. N. Cabell and L. M. Cork, executive members.

Lowest Bidder Gets Contract For P.G.E.

Contract for the last stretch of roadbed in the extension of the P.G.E. from Quenel to Prince George has been awarded.

The lowest of six tenders received for the 15-mile project, $522,300, from Emil Anderson Construction Co., Ltd., was accepted.

Others were: Dawson and Wade Co., Ltd., $547,639; Jamieson Construction Co., Ltd., $601,805; Storms Contracting Co. (Pacific) Ltd., $603,849; Maxwell Construction Co., Ltd., $591,315; Campbell-Bennett Ltd., $547,825.

Directors of the railway are optimistic extension to Prince George will be completed by the end of next year, as they make plans for the awarding of a steel-laying contract for a 40-mile stretch southward from the new terminus.

Rails are being laid by railway crews northward from Quenel to Cottonwood River which is being spanned by a 300-foot bridge.

Progress on the bridge work is the main factor in the early completion date.

If concrete piers can be poured before the cold weather, the hopes for an early completion will be realized.

City's I.W.A. Local 'Not Too Happy'

Failure To Obtain Union Shop
Said Most Disappointing Point

Victoria local of the I.W.A. is "not too happy" over outcome of the dispute with logging operators on a new working agreement.

Failure of the woodworkers to obtain a union shop was the most disappointing feature and a fight next year for this concession was predicted.

Said Ed. Haw, organizer of the Victoria area Local 1-118 of the union: "The union shop will be one of our main objectives in negotiations next year."

Second French Plane Crashes In Persian Gulf

BAHRAIN ISLAND, Persian Gulf (CP)—A big Air France plane crashed in the Persian Gulf Wednesday night, and 40 of the 52 persons it carried are feared dead. The craft plunged into the gulf at almost the same spot where another Air France plane crashed two days ago with a loss of 46 lives.

Officials said 12 persons had been rescued by early afternoon, including four of the crew of eight. Twelve infants were reported to have been aboard the plane. Only one is known to have been saved.

This plane and the sister C-54 Skymaster which crashed two days ago were en route from Indo-China to Paris. Officials have not discarded the possibility of sabotage by adherents of the Indo-Chinese Communists who are fighting the French.

Air France officials in Paris said the plane carried 44 passengers and eight crew members. The officials said the search of the region was continuing with more than 100 small fishing boats scouring the area.

R.A.F. and U.S. Air Force planes based in the gulf area joined the search, sweeping low over the area, but a low ceiling hampered their efforts. High winds and choppy waters made it unlikely that life rafts from the plane could stay afloat for long.

The survivors all were reported to be French citizens, some of them said to be important political figures.

The circumstances of this crash and the one two days ago were almost identical. A storm was sweeping the gulf area in each case. The planes were coming in for landing after receiving instructions from the field just before they plunged into the sea. Both planes had begun their trips at Saigon, Indo-China, and had made their last stops at Karachi, Pakistan.

The first plane had dropped into about 12 feet of water. It was beached Wednesday. Twenty-eight bodies were found still in the cabin. Wednesday night the sister ship fell into 30 feet of water. A floating derick was used today in attempts to raise it and it was believed the bodies of most of the missing would be found in the wreckage. A company spokesman, ordering a halt to night flying at Bahrain, said the field was not equipped with systems for radar approach and had only two radio beacons to guide pilots.

On the 12½ cents hourly wage increase granted, the organizer commented: "We didn't get any more than was coming to us; in fact we didn't get what was coming to us."

At Vancouver officials of the C.I.O. International came out of their continuous, nine-hour mediation session with government and company representatives to say it was in their best interests, and those of the province generally, that they accept a compromise 1950 contract.

The strike, for higher pay, shorter hours and a union shop, was to have begun between 7 and 8 a.m. local time in coastal lumber mills and plants on the mainland, Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes.

LESS THAN ASKED

The union settled for less than the general 17-cent hourly pay raise, five-day, 40-hour week and union shop it had demanded. Pending ratification by rank and file members, a union policy committee accepted 163 companies' offer of a 12½-cent boost, a 40-hour week and a "maintenance of membership" clause in the new contract.

Union officials said the clause provided that all loggers, bunkhouse workers and other men affected who belonged to the union when the agreement was signed would have to stay members for its duration.

Stewart Alsbury, the union's district president, and R. V. Stuart, representing the operators, both announced they were satisfied with the terms.

Alsbury said the agreement seemed "pretty good." Stuart, an official of Forest Industrial Relations which represented the companies, said the settlement was "a source of satisfaction to employers in the forest industry." He added, "The extensive concessions made have prevented this province being injured by a work stoppage in its most vital industry."

The woodworking industry earns 40 cents out of every dollar in British Columbia. A strike would have dealt a body blow to much of Canada's timber export to Britain, as well as Canadian housing projects.

Merchants in upcoast areas and on Vancouver Island and Queen Charlotte Island hailed the settlement.

Britain To Take Russian Lumber

LONDON (AP)—The government disclosed that it has signed contracts with Russia under which the Soviet Union will step up timber exports to Britain by 50 per cent. It is expected Russia will provide about 150,000 standards of timber in the next year, compared with 100,000 in 1949. A standard is 1,980 board feet.

40 Lose Lives In Abortive Peru Uprising

LIMA, Peru (AP)—At least 40 persons were believed today to have been killed in a two-day revolt during which rebels captured most of the city of Arequipa.

The government announced loyal troops, moving into the city, had put down the revolt.

The government blamed Communists for the uprising. Arequipa, with a population of 93,000, is Peru's second largest city. The rebels at one time held the city hall, military headquarters, the airport, a radio station and other buildings.

No official figures on casualties were announced, but there were many wounded in addition to the 40 estimated dead. Loyal troops crushed the revolt as soon as they reached the city, the government announced today. Censorship, imposed when the revolt began, was lifted this morning.

While the rebels held control of Arequipa they announced by radio that "many places in southern Peru have revolted against the government." But authorities here said the uprising was confined to Arequipa and that quiet prevails in the rest of the country.

Many persons were reported under arrest both in Arequipa and here. Loyal troops hold complete control, the government said, and the task of restoring the city to normal is under way.

Fourteen-Year Penalties In Official Secrets Act

Amendments Double Its Sentences
And Extend Terms Outside Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today asked Parliament for broad new powers under the Official Secrets Act and to authorize a doubling of the act's top penalty for espionage and related activities.

Justice Minister Garson, introducing a bill to make amendments to the act, said they would raise from seven to 14 years the maximum penalty available under its sweeping provisions. The act was the basis for the 1946 spy prosecutions.

The changes would arm the government with at least one new power of possibly far-reaching importance.

The top sentences handed out under the act in the 1946 spy prosecutions were six years.

MADE WIDER

Mr. Garson said the amendments will also:

1. Extend the act to make clear that penalties for wrongdoings by employees of the Crown embrace government boards, commissions, corporations or other agencies.
2. Give the act extra-territorial effect, enabling the Crown to penalize Canadians who break it outside Canada as well as foreigners who unlawfully divulge outside Canada secret information they got here.
3. Remove any doubt that persons charged or convicted under the act may be fingerprinted.

There was no discussion on the bill as it was given first reading.

Expect Decision

City officials were advised Wednesday by Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew that a decision was expected momentarily on the proposal to dredge the section of the Inner Harbor above Point Ellice Bridge.

The Welcome Compromise

FORTUNATELY FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA'S economy and the general welfare of the members of the International Woodworkers of America the logging and associated industries of the province will carry on today as usual. The threat of another strike was removed in the early hours of this morning as the result of obviously genuine efforts on the part of both parties to the dispute. The union did not accomplish all it set out to accomplish. We do not suppose it expected to. The operators apparently felt it desirable to agree to a 12½-cent hourly wage increase instead of remaining adamant on a 9-cent maximum. The union shop issue stays where it was at the beginning of negotiations; maintenance of membership as a degree of union security will fill the bill for the life of the new contract.

There is nothing startling in the repetition of the dictum that labor-management disputes are always eventually settled round the conference table. In view of this established fact, therefore, it would seem to us that since the major industry of British Columbia has just missed another interference with its operations, at the last moment, ways and means might be found to use the period between now and the expiry of the new contract to explore the possibility of an arrangement of a flexible nature that would obviate the annual battle over wages and hours of work as they concern production costs and the cost of living. Due to the nature of the industry and continental and overseas market fluctuations, of course, a proposal of this kind might not be easy to adopt. But it will not seriously be argued that it is impossible to erect strike-preventing machinery based on the common interest of employer and employee. Is the General Motors' plan for a five-year working agreement so difficult to copy in its basic principles?

B.C. Credit Still High

JUDGED BY THE SOMEWHAT AIRY manner in which it has discussed the $26,000,000 debenture loan Hon. Herbert Anscomb has just negotiated at such an excellent rate it would seem that our local contemporary is not very familiar with its subject. It concedes that the Minister of Finance "is no doubt pleased at the declared success" of the flotation "where half of the issue sold at a low interest rate for provincial securities, and the balance at the traditional three per cent with an added discount," but adds that "before British Columbia has repaid it, the actual cost of the loan to the taxpayers will be considerably more than advertised." Particularly is this so, the columnist contends, "with regard to the refunding of outstanding British Columbia issues, which then enter another period of interest accruals." Having established these premises to its own satisfaction, the morning paper proceeds to elaborate as follows:

"If ready marketing of British Columbia issues is in point, the Treasury might examine why British Columbia hydro bonds are more in demand than straight provincial issues, although provincially backed. Similarly in the municipal field waterworks debentures are bringing more than direct council by-law issues. Originally it was intended that the Bank of Canada would be used to assist both provincial and municipal financing, but the facts have not worked out that way. Today every public issue, outside of the federal field, going to the market is in stiff competition with every other issue. It seems an expensive way of getting money, even in $26,000,000 lots."

Consider the reference to refunding: The $26,000,000 loan embodies two types of securities—$14,000,000 of serials that will be paid at maturity. These are not subject to any refunding processes, while $12,000,000 will be safeguarded on a sinking fund basis, which, at most, should leave not more than $4,000,000 to be refinanced 18 years hence. Our contemporary, moreover, has not mentioned the fact that the 18-year issue is earmarked for works that should have a life ranging anywhere between 30 and 50 years. Thus it would be sheer nonsense to impose an undue burden on this generation for benefits accruing mainly to the next. Little needs to be said, of course, about the differential existing between, say, the Hydro bond and the Provincial bond. The morning paper must appreciate the fact that an investor will give preference to the bond which has all the backing that a direct obligation has with the Consolidated Revenue Fund behind it—plus all the earning power of the utility.

The allusion to the Bank of Canada may mislead some of our contemporary's readers, since the purpose of that institution was to establish the kind of machinery that would stabilize national credit and exercise obvious controlling factors. The benefits, needless to add, apply to industry, whether large or small, municipalities, provincial governments, and the national government. At no time was a central bank supposed to become a buyer and seller of securities as is apparently implied by the morning paper. (Incidentally, the Bank of Canada came into being as the result of the findings of experts imported from Great Britain under the leadership of Lord MacMillan.) In any event, moreover, and notwithstanding the somewhat skeptical views to which we have referred, the high status of the credit of British Columbia which Mr. Anscomb's latest financial transaction revealed cannot be lowered by any form of criticism lacking a sound basis of fact and logic.

Be Considerate And Live Longer

THE PUBLISHED VIEWS OF MAJOR H. Cuthbert Holmes, on conditions as he found them during a lengthy visit to Britain, will bring a measure of reassurance to the hundreds of Victorians who are personally interested in the welfare of friends and relatives across the Atlantic. Major Holmes confirms much that has been said and written about the physical wellbeing of Britons, the apparent health and sturdiness of the young people, and the unavoidable effects of war strain on the older age groupings. Of more than passing interest, moreover, are his remarks on highway courtesy found in Britain. In his words: "In nearly six months in England, I saw only one slight accident on the road.

This courtesy was the same among pedestrians, too." Much information is contained in those two sentences—in fact, information on driving habits which, if they were observed here, could reduce the tragic slaughter which occurs on Canadian highways. Major Holmes did not discuss the strictness or otherwise of traffic law enforcement in England. That could, of course, be a material factor in the development of careful driving practices. The fact, however, that he attributed safety to the courtesy of both motorists and pedestrians speaks for itself. Good manners on the road, as his observations prove, represent more than agreeable social usage. They reflect progress in the preservation of life.

Home Influence Still Admitted Major Factor In Teen-Age Life

By BRUCE BLOSSAT From New York

FROM coast to coast of the United States the kids are running wild. It's high sport for youngsters to beat up innocent people, to shoot and even kill each other in well-generated gang wars, to fill city streets with terror and violence.

In his series called "Teens on the Rampage," Richard Kleiner of NEA has performed a useful, timely service by spelling out the chief remedies proposed by law enforcement officials.

DEFINITE IDEAS
From the remedies offered, certain definite ideas emerge. Youngsters need companionship and organized, disciplined group activity in health surroundings. Delinquency can spring up when any of the elements basic to normal growth are missing.

That crowded city slums are breeders of crime is accepted by the experts. Dirty tenements and endless stretches of cheerless pavement don't encourage the rounded life for urban youth.

But you can't put all the blame on the slums. Many a poor lad has licked his bad environment and gone on to success in his chosen field. Plenty of youngsters grow to adulthood in a mean setting without running amok.

Modern city family life frequently is much at fault. Good parental discipline is no longer a common commodity. Parents may be pre-occupied with grubbing a living, or perhaps merely with enjoying themselves. Whatever the reason, they're indifferent to their children's normal needs.

Some psychologists see the city family set-up as wholly artificial from the youngster's standpoint. Living too often in cramped apartment quarters, the parents put the damper on a child's natural impulses toward noisy play, adventure, excitement.

Better housing, real play space, green grass are obviously desirable substitutes for dismal slums. Where slum clearance is a remote goal, churches, schools and school yards, community centres and fraternal halls should be made available to kids for a wide range of organized activities.

DOUBLE RESPONSIBILITY
The parents have a double responsibility in this problem. They must face up to their basic task of disciplining their children wisely and continuously. Outside activities need the touch of parental supervision.

But perhaps even more important, parents have got to make a real place for their children in the crowded city home of today. Shooting them off to the movies or onto the streets is shirking their duty. At sacrifice to themselves, mothers and fathers have got to find as many home outlets as possible for their youngsters' normal urges. Home is not much of a child's world right now; it ought to be a better one.

Britain's Problem

By PETER WHITNEY From Paris

THE salient fact which emerges from the confusion, some of it caused by hair-splitting worthy of an academicians' banquet, over the French invitation to participate in the Schuman plan for Europe's steel and coal, is the complete diplomatic isolation of Britain. It appears that all the countries invited, except Britain, will subscribe to the French proposal that they should commit themselves in advance to a super-national coal and steel authority.

The discomfort which this causes is not felt in London alone. Practically everybody on the continent wants Britain in the new system and many Europeans would despair if they thought that she was really going to stay aloof.

THE French, with their marvelous lucidity (sometimes misguided) in explaining everything, are blaming the current differences of opinion on the basic psychological differences between the French and Anglo-Saxon cultures. The French philosophical tradition is Cartesian, deriving reality from reason; a thing theoretically possible is as good as realized. The Anglo-Saxons are empiricists who insist on seeing a working model.

The French do not see why a pledge of ultimate faith in the supernatural solution of the problem of Europe's basic industries should compromise the negotiators who are sent out to work out its details. They say they wish to exact this pledge of faith in order to draw full value from the public sentiment, somewhat cloudily and ill-informed, it is true, which has been aroused in support of the Schuman proposals. In a way, such a commitment would be a gesture of an almost ceremonial nature.

BRITAIN'S point of view appears to be that she is being asked to tie her hands in advance. It is possible that the British negotiators would, in fact, take such a pledge, once given, more literally than their opposite numbers in Germany, France, Italy and the Netherlands. But the reluctance to give it on these very grounds suffers from the appearance of ill grace, and to the French seems to have different grounds connected with a narrow view of national self-interest.

These grounds are the same as those which in European and American eyes have distinguished British policy towards the unification of Europe from the beginning of the Marshall plan; the almost instinctive insistence on remaining aloof from continental economic commitments. Above all, the stern refusal to import the creation of just such bodies as the Schuman plan envisages, permanent supra-national organisms with power over the policies, especially economic policies, of individual countries.

THE history of the Marshall plan is itself the bad example which the French—as their high officials freely acknowledge—have studiously kept in mind and it is the effort to avoid creating another O.E.E.C. or another Council of Europe which animates them in their diplomatic "blitz" against Whitehall.

Mr. Bevin has often received credit for seizing "with both hands" the Marshall offer and turning it into a living organism. But that is to forget that the Americans, when they came to discuss with Mr. Bevin the outline of the proposed aid scheme for Europe in the summer of 1947, were horrified to discover that he favored a kind of Anglo-American economic trusteeship to dispense aid to the other nations of Europe. The quarrel which then arose between America and Britain has receded into limbo, and the only point of reviving it is to remind the reader of today how sharp it was and how easily it might have been shattering.

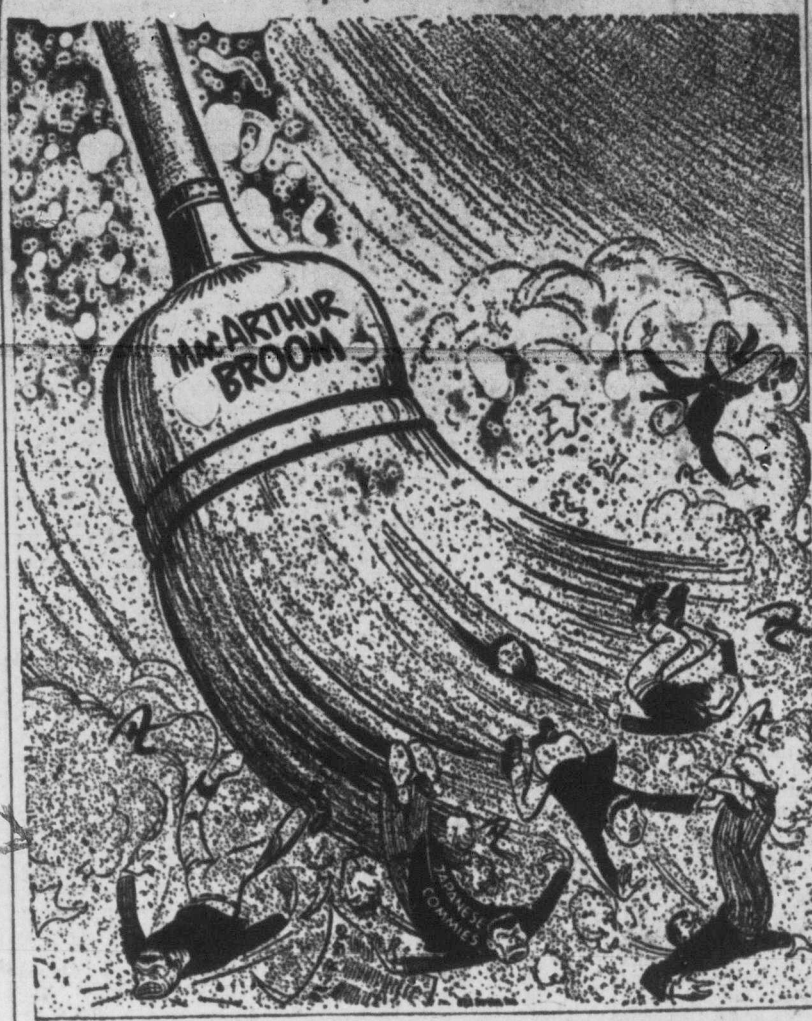

THE present O.E.E.C., which is essentially a committee of national governments with no will or power of its own, is perhaps the best that could be created three years ago when, for example, the French franc was hardly a real currency and the Communists were mounting insurrectionary strikes there and in Italy. But the model is now felt to be hopelessly out of date.

It is in large part due to the insistence of the British delegates that the O.E.E.C. has been prevented from exerting even much moral power within the limited context of its constitution. In this, it falls far behind the United Nations, which is substantially powerless, but has moral resources through its access to public opinion. Unlike the United Nations, the International Secretariat of O.E.E.C. is not entrusted with much of the creative work of the organization nor given much freedom in expressing itself in public. The bulk of the work is done by the members of national delegations, and since the British officials are by far the most capable on this kind of work, Britain has maintained a tight hold on the output of O.E.E.C.

IT IS quite clear that the authority for steel and coal foreseen by the French is a body of a quite different sort, whose members, once appointed, would in some fields make laws, if necessary overriding the rulings of Parliament. The French think the best practical details of this admittedly difficult proposition can be worked out by experts; they do not think such difficulties should be allowed to interfere with an expression of intention.

It is widely believed that the British reluctance to join in international bodies, which involve the delegation of economic power particularly, stems from the desire of British Socialists to maintain control over the national economy. Close association with the liberal economies of the continent would clearly compromise some aspects of British domestic planning. The British coal industry which is already nationalized, and the steel industry which is on the schedule for eventual nationalization, are prime examples of basic industries the control of which Whitehall would be sorry to lose.

MAN'S HOPE

This old world now needs international law and order to keep it functioning! I trust your editorials and "letters to the editor" are upholding the United Nations and are giving encouragement to Mr. Trygve Lie.

The furnishing of the new U.N. permanent headquarters is under way—"The Centre of Man's Hope." The secretary-general has a bright new agenda for discussion by the nation's delegates that may bring about the Brotherhood of Man.

Let us pray that the "cold war" blasts lessen as the General Assembly and the Security Council meetings draw near.

EFFORTS RECOGNIZED

Mrs. Gertrude E. McGill and her group of workers have recently put on two very fine programs under the auspices of the Children's Library which operates at 1170 Tattersall Drive.

From the May 24 program a sum of $241.50 was raised and this has been donated to the Save the Children Fund, making a total of $1,048 raised during the last four years for that cause. Also from the Sunday service $115 was raised, this being donated to the Winnipeg Relief Fund.

I think public recognition of these splendid efforts should be made and Mrs. McGill and all those who assisted should be most heartily thanked.

I understand that the use of the adjoining gardens of Mrs. Lessey Pollard are generously granted for these occasions, this is also very commendable. It is through these efforts of kind and sympathetic public-minded people that much-needed funds are raised for distressed children of other parts of the world.

VOTING RIGHTS

We graciously accord sanctuary to displaced persons and desirable immigrants, all of whom may in due time, if well recommended, obtain the franchise and become Canadian citizens. Meanwhile we permit them to work side by side with Canadians under similar conditions, pay, etc. We afford them education, protection, social securities and all the benefits that obtain for our own. They do not have a vote at the polls until Canadian citizenship has been obtained; then, not only they but their wives and dependents of mature age do.

Is it right that these privileged persons should be allowed to vote as union members in framing the laws under which Canadians shall work, and is it right and proper that minors, who by their age are not entitled to vote at the polls, should vote at such a ballot as was recently held in connection with the logging industry in this province, while numbers of the same union who did not happen to be represented by a bargaining agent were denied the right to vote? And, again, in what other country would representatives of another country—foreigners—be permitted to air their opinions and advise the government on matters pertaining to the internal economy of the nation they were visiting? Try it and see. Maybe these are they who will truly sing our National Anthem for us.

Problems Of The Schuman Plan

By SUSAN STRANGE, from London

IF BRITAIN stays out of the Schuman Plan for the integration of European coal and steel, it will be for ideological rather than for strictly economic reasons.

RISK INTERFERENCE

Present indications are that no important technical reasons stand in the way of British participation but that international control over prices and output levels in heavy industry would risk interference with British aims of full employment. Until the free enterprise trend of French and German—particularly German—economic policy changes, the Labor Party would probably be unwilling to take this risk.

As before, when European union was first proposed on a political level, the attitude of British Labor is likely to be influenced by the fear of Socialist policies being swamped in an organization dominated by Right-wing parties.

A report to be published this week by Comisco, the international organization of Socialist parties, is expected to make the point that countries participating in integration plans for European heavy industry must have common economic policies. The report—which, of course, does not finally commit Comisco member parties—deals with the same broad problems as the Schuman Plan, although it is based on a conference of Socialist economists held in March in the Ruhr before Mr. Schuman made his proposal.

Another major difficulty, widely voiced in British industrial circles, is the simple one that such a vast international planning organization would require men of superhuman intellect to run it. In this country the National Coal Board, which is perhaps the biggest industrial planning project in Western Europe, finds that its own 15-year plan is a big enough job for any human brain to comprehend.

For this reason alone, it may well be that when the coal board gives the government its ideas on the Schuman Plan, as it has been asked to do, it will suggest that the co-ordination of British, French, German, and Benelux heavy industry—if it is attempted—might most usefully begin at the marketing rather than the production level.

As far as coal is concerned, there is little fear in Britain of French or German competition in the immediate future in coal export markets. British coals are certainly competitive and free trade in coal could not harm the nationalized coal industry. The limiting factor for British coal exports at present is still the capacity of British mines to produce enough coal both for domestic and foreign customers. It seems unlikely, for example, that this year's top target of coal production can be met with a reduced labor force.

ADDED DETAILS

The chief advantage, indeed, of a combined West European marketing organization would be that together the French, Belgians, British and Germans could fend off the danger that at some point Poland might reverse its present restrictive export policies towards the West and flood the market with cheap coal. If that happened, the export plans of all the West European industries could be disastrously upset.—GFNS Copyright.

DEFENCE SECRETARY LOUIS JOHNSON and Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, are due to arrive in Tokyo in a few days for a conference with Gen. MacArthur. The red-hot question of an early Japanese peace treaty is expected to feature the discussions.

One uses the term "red-hot" advisedly. The dominating influence of the United States in this island empire, and Washington's obvious determination to continue protection of U.S. interests, is a circumstance which has been causing bitterness in Russian quarters.

At this writing there is small chance indeed that any treaty can be drawn up to suit both the United States and Russia. And the answer to that would seem to be that the western allies will have to go ahead on their own.

MacArthur has insisted that an early treaty is essential. He does not propose the complete withdrawal of United States troops. On the contrary it is understood he believes that the military defence of Japan calls for the presence of U.S. forces.

The Japanese government is reported willing to have American troops stay on after the projected treaty is signed. Moreover, informed sources in the Japanese capital say the government would also agree to maintain bases required by American forces.

Naturally Russia can be expected to battle any such set-up to a finish. Just as the U.S. and the western allies need Japan for defence against the Communist offensive in southeast Asia, so do the Russians need it if they are to succeed in their conquest of the Far East.

IMPROVE PRISON SYSTEMS

Financial Post

Some of the provinces have been making some improvement in their prison system and administration, notably Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The others, according to an authority, range from bad to awful. "You can quite safely say Nova Scotia is the worst."

Patronage, incompetence, plus government and public indifference are the causes.

But the rehabilitation rather than the rubber-hose approach to penology pays cash dividends. Harassed taxpayers should insist on reform.

"IF" HAS AN INNINGS

The Times of London

If there is a cricketer who never from April until September in any summer of his sporting life, has dropped a catch, then he is lusus naturae, an admirable Crichton, a poor fish to be pitted by men of riper experience. The moment of agonizing hope as the ball comes to wards him, straight from the bat and clear of the ground, the misery as he drops it, the coils of fire heaped on his bowed head when the bowler, in answer to his mumbled apologies, says charitably "Bad luck, old boy. There must have been a vile spin on it," are memories that enrich the reminiscence butterfingers. If he were denied them the salt of recalling catches caught would lose much of its savor. The gods of sport being, on the whole, merciful, most dropped catches get quickly forgotten—except by the culprit and the bowler—and cannot be shown demonstrably to have changed the fortunes of the match.

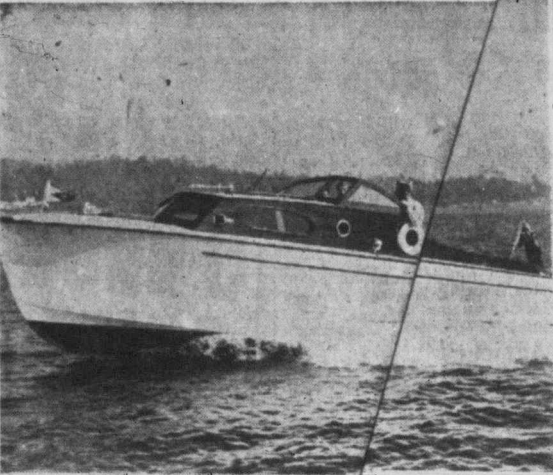

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"THESE days," said the Elevator Man, "one of the necessities for survival is good eyesight. Not just to see cars and trucks that are headed for you or to avoid manholes, curbs, loose wiring and people's umbrellas. No, what I mean is you need it to protect yourself against the pitfalls of fine print—the small type at the bottom of the contract or the tiny figures on price tags that change the whole picture when you get down to reading them. We've got so used to the practice that it doesn't bother us much now, but a visitor to our civilization would find it mighty confusing. The old saying that 'what you don't see won't hurt you' is 100 per cent wrong at a time like that. It's the fine print that packs the wallop. Mind the step!"

"Take candy these days," said the Elevator Man. "From six feet away the sign says, plain and clear, 50 cents per lb. Four feet away there seems to be some little doubt about the matter, and when you get within two feet you can just make out that between the per and the lb. there is a small, faint ½. Car ads in the magazines sometimes give the price. Underneath in tiny print it says—'fenders, whitewall tires,' seat covers, radio and accessories extra.' And in finer type still it adds—'slightly higher west of the Rockies.' It's like reading to the bottom of the oculist's chart to find out what his fee is. Going down!"

"I suppose," said the Elevator Man, "when you come right down to it, most of life is like that. We know our acquaintances like we know what the big type says. But not until they're really friends do we learn the little angles to their personalities that would be written in small type. It's the little factors that make or mar the friendship, and it takes more than rose-colored glasses to read them properly."

THE HOME GARDEN

Stocks Seeded Now Will Bloom Next May, June

By JACK G. BEASTALL

A friend was telling me of the beautiful gillflowers (Gillflower) her grandmother grew and asked why the seed is no longer listed in the catalogs.

Here is an instance where the use of common names for plants can get a person into an awful mix-up.

Gillflower is a corruption of the French word "gilliflowe" and was originally used in Italy as the name for the carnation (Dianthus caryophyllus). This, also, was the flower referred to in the writings of Shakespeare and Chaucer.

In 17th century England the "Queen's Gillflower" was Hesperis matronalis, the Sweet Rocket. Today it is applied to both the Brompton stocks (Mathiola incana autumnalis) and the wallflower (Cheiranthus cheiri).

BROMPTON STOCKS

My friend decided to settle for the Brompton stock.

This old-fashioned biennial is not so much grown as it deserves. The 10-week stock is more popular because of the shorter time from seed to flower, but it cannot compare with the stately spikes of the Bromptons.

All stocks are sensitive to root damage, especially in the more advanced stages of growth. A root-rot develops which is indicated by the wilting of the plants and eventual death. Transplanting may be successfully carried out when the plants are small if a little care is exercised.

Seed of the Brompton stock may be sown now in the flower border, to bloom next May to June. Some protection will be needed, especially from continuous rains.

The recognized practice is to pot up the seedlings, carrying them through the winter in a cold-frame, and planting out in the permanent border in spring.

NUMBER OF NAMES

Stock has been in cultivation so long that each type has collected a number of names. The Bromptons are also known as Queen stocks; perpetual branching are variously termed Bismarck, Dresden, Cut-and-come again; 10-week stock is sometimes listed as intermediate, and the Virginian stock is actually Malcolmia maritima, also listed as Malcolm and Mahon stocks.

EXPERTS SAY

Hospital Need Here Greater

BY TOM MERRIMAN

In any government financial consideration should be given to the fact that Victoria will always need more hospital accommodation on a pro rata basis than any other city in Canada is the opinion expressed by some medical experts.

The argument is based on figures of age groups and sickness among age groups.

Population statistics show that there is a greater proportion of people in the age groups of 50 and over on the west coast of Canada than in the eastern provinces.

The proportion in that group is greater in Victoria than in any other city in Canada.

Victoria continues, as it has done for years to draw people who have passed 50, and particularly those of 60 years of age and over who come here to retire.

SICKNESS RISE

Charts show there is a distinct rise in sickness in progressive ages.

At 25 years of age, 35 out of every 1,000 persons have some chronic illness; at 45 100 of every 1,000.

From that point the total increases sharply.

At 60 years of age, 250 of every 1,000 have a chronic illness; at 85 years, 500 of every 1,000; at 90 years, 900 in every 1,000.

Out of every 1,000 in good health at 60 years, 25 per cent develop some ailment in the following five years.

MAKE JAM THE MODERN SHORT-BOIL WAY

SAVE TIME, WORK, MONEY

Compare These Two Methods—

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.

2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.

3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old long-boil way.

4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds 1/4 bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jellying substance in fruit in concentrated form.

5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.

6. Mrs. A.'s 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.

2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.

3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.

4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about 1/2 the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.

5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.

6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.

Under the label of every bottle of CERTO is a book of 78 tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits need different handling, so CERTO gives you a separate recipe for each fruit. Be sure to follow the simple directions EXACTLY.

Wide Powers For Howe On Defence Purchases

Commons Decides Against Set Limits On Production Profits Of Companies

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe, in fending off a heavy Commons siege, Wednesday rejected Opposition calls for a set limit on defence production profits.

The minister said no such system could be devised to work satisfactorily because of the complexity of the manufacturing industry. There was no all-embracing yardstick.

Mr. Howe, backed solidly by Liberal members, won House approval of the principle of a controversial bill to vest in him wide powers for defence purchasing in peacetime.

The three parties in opposition charged that the powers were excessive and dictatorial. Mr. Howe said they were needed to handle "perhaps the most important business of the country" and argued they were a lesser, modified version of war powers he had voluntarily relinquished.

He said defence purchases now mean an average of 350 new or amended business contracts a day, handled by the government's Canadian Commercial Corporation.

SECOND READING

In a vote the opposition lost 127 to 44. That gave the bill second reading, but it still has one more hurdle to pass, third reading after committee study by the whole House.

The House pitched into the defence battle after approving a 50-year treaty with the United States, governing diversion of the power-producing waters of Niagara Falls and to preserve famed scenic beauties. External Affairs Minister Pearson said the treaty—still to be ratified by the U.S. Congress—will bring a "substantial" increase in Ontario's power total.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, and H. W. Herridge (C.C.F.-Kootenay East) paced the attack on the defence purchasing bill. Mr. Drew said it would open the door to dictatorship and place "practically the whole of our economy in the hands of this one minister."

Mr. Low said it gave Mr. Howe authority to requisition any goods at his own price, to take far-reaching steps to insure priority in delivery of supplies and to take other actions which were too broad for peacetime. Mr. Herridge called the powers "enormous." J. M. Macdonnell

$3,000 For Each House Damaged In Flood Area

That Will Be Ceiling, Except In Unusual Cases, Premier Of Manitoba Announces

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Douglas L. Campbell said today that the "little man" probably will be looked after "in toto" in the matter of recompense for damage to his house from Manitoba's disastrous spring flood.

The premier made the comment in a statement that disclosed a maximum of $3,000—although some exceptions can make it higher—has been placed on flood relief to householders for damage to dwellings.

Mr. Campbell said the schedule of relief applied only to homes and farm buildings hit by the floods. Furniture, private possessions or livestock would not be included. Small businesses and other categories of establishments will be handled later.

"Our guess is that less than 5 per cent will exceed the maximum," said the premier. His statement made these points:

1. Assistance grants for flooded dwellings will be the amount of the appraised damage up to but not exceeding $3,000.

2. Assistance up to a total of $300 for other buildings appurtenant to urban homes.

3. Rehabilitation assistance up to $1,000 for barns.

4. Rehabilitation assistance for other farm buildings to be determined following individual appraisals.

5. A dwelling used in part for the conduct of business will be defined as a dwelling.

6. Where buildings are wrecked or ruined beyond repair, the appraised damage will be the estimated cost of replacement less depreciation and obsolescence.

7. Where a building has shifted from its foundation, as a result of the flood, cost of moving it back will be granted in addition to rehabilitation assistance.

8. Where a building has been carried away by flood water but is in sufficiently sound condition to be moved back, the cost of moving will be granted in addition to rehabilitation assistance.

9. Additional rehabilitation assistance may be allowed when there is excessive damage to a building as a result of river currents and battering by water-driven debris.

Okanagan Valley Said To Need Gas

KELOWNA (CP)—Extension of the proposed natural gas pipeline to include the Okanagan valley, in an effort to encourage the interior's secondary industries, was urged Wednesday by W. A. C. Bennett, Coalition M.L.A. for South Okanagan.

Mr. Bennett said fruit growers' losses caused by this year's unprecedented cold winter necessitated looking farther afield for industries which will offset seasonal labor conditions in the fruit industry.

If natural gas was available, there would be a tendency to decentralize industry, giving work to many presently employed on a seasonal basis.

During recent years, population of the interior has tripled and steps must be taken to provide full employment, said Mr. Bennett.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Lester Patrick has always maintained hockey news released during the summer months was of little value. So the owner of the Victoria franchise in the Pacific Coast Hockey League naturally had little to talk about on his return recently from the interleague sessions in Montreal. "I would rather make an announcement when there is something more concrete and the time is opportune," he said. "Right now people are thinking about baseball and other summer activities. Hockey is the last sport in which they have in mind. Publicity right now is a wasted effort."

Material Should Be Available

Although he made no definite commitment one could not help but get the feeling Patrick is not losing any sleep over the prospects for next season. During our conversation he pointed out that two junior clubs sponsored by Montreal Canadiens battled it out for the Canadian championship, which naturally means the N.H.L. club is certain to have young material available. And the Cougars have a working agreement with the Canadiens.

Another factor is worth pointing out at this time. With the folding of the Louisville club of the United States Hockey League, players being sent out by Canadiens for seasoning will go either to Cincinnati of the American Hockey League or Victoria. There will be no intermediate point.

Lynn Here In About Two Weeks

While in the east Lester spent several days in New York with his son, Lynn, who is returning to Victoria to take over the coaching job with the Cougars. "I expect Lynn is now en route to the coast," Patrick said. "He is driving out with his family and with the new baby along I don't expect him for about two weeks at least."

Edo Vanni Case Wrapped Up

To all intents and purposes the Edo Vanni case is closed as far as the Victoria Athletics are concerned. Their only concern now is to determine just when he will be given his release. Vanni's future in baseball this season will have to be decided by the Western International League. The outfielder can appeal president Bob Abel's indefinite suspension to the league directors at their session in Tacoma Monday, but it is not likely they will override the president's ruling. The Athletics will likely give Vanni his release within the next week. Then it will be a case of Edo attempting to catch on with another W.I.L. club. It is known that Salem has shown some interest in picking up Vanni's contract.

Jake LaMotta Gets Cheers Of Teen-Age Fans

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—Jake LaMotta perked his ears. Somebody actually was cheering. "I for Jake. I for LaMotta." "Yes, yes, Jake LaMotta." The Bronx bull usually hears "cheers" starting with B and ending with OOOOOOOO. An old Bronx custom.

Mound Jobs Wasted In 11-Inning Tie

Two great hurling chores went by the boards last night at Central Park as darkness forced a halt to an interesting 4-all game between the Bluebird Cabs and B.C. Forest Products of the Senior A softball league.

Both pitchers, Barry Jackson of the millmen and Charlie McKay of the Cabbies went the distance, 11 innings. McKay seemed to tire in the latter innings, but pitched himself out of several jams as Forest Products left a total of 15 runners stranded.

Manager Wally Smith's proteges picked up two runs in the first inning, and added another run in the second, to move ahead 3 to 0.

Cliff McKay of the Cabbies lined out a homer to drive in two runners ahead of him in the bottom of the third to tie up the game.

Both teams went down in order for the next three innings. Bob Embleton of the Cabbies pulled off a circus catch to rob John Kennedy of a hit in the fourth and it cut off two certain runs.

McKay picked up his fourth RBI of the game in the seventh lining out deep to Hudlin in right and scoring Hugh MacDonald with Bluebird's fourth run.

Forest Products deadlocked the game again in the top of the eighth when Kennedy singled.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Prize winners in the Wilf Chan softball benefit performance Sunday were Sid Smethurst, George Chan and Mrs. E. Lee.

Tribe Scalps Shamrocks In More Ways Than One

By BILL WALKER

There was a time in 1763 when a massacre followed a lacrosse game.

Now it isn't suggested for a moment that such an occurrence will be repeated, but unless someone puts a bug in the respective ears of the Intercity Lacrosse Commission there's going to be mayhem of sorts when Indians and Shamrocks next meet on the Memorial Arena floor.

The two teams threw everything but the goalposts at one another last night as Indians settled a few personal scores with the locals in taking a rugged 8 to 5 victory in the inaugural of the return of seven-man lacrosse.

For some reason that referees Tom McKeachie and Sid Greenwood didn't apparently know about or made little effort to solve, Indians and Shamrocks showed in last night's game that they don't like one another.

FEELING RUNS HIGH

Sticks were carried high all evening and more than a few skulls were creased as the visitors came from behind a 5 to 3 three-quarter time deficit to score five unanswered markers.

There were three fights thrown in for good measure and a few more narrowly averted, especially in the final period, as tempers reached the breaking point. And throughout it all the referees appeared content to let matters run their course as they turned in one of the most inconsistent performances of the season.

Indians, fully deserving of their victory, were going away from a badly disorganized band of Shamrocks at the finish.

One-Time Immigrant Boy Still Seeks Logger Who Helped Him

By TOM MERRIMAN
(Ward B, Veterans' Hospital)

European-born Ralph Bittner, 44-year-old World War II veteran now well on his way to recovery in the D.V.A. Hospital from the seventh major operation on his kidneys, is looking for a six-foot Alberta logger. He is well-built, broad-shouldered, with a heavy moustache, and used to work at Calder Camp, near Rocky Mountain.

He has been looking for him for 20 years or more.

Every time he meets a man with any resemblance to the man of his memory he opens a conversation with "Were you ever at Rocky Mountain House?" He hasn't been successful yet.

"THANK YOU"

What he wants to meet him for is to say "Thank you," and to give him some money.

Ralph told about it the first day he was feeling like his normal self following the operation which seems to be the successful one after a series which have anchored him to a hospital bed for months at a time.

RALPH BITTNER

The reason why Ralph wants to find the logger:

Leaving Europe a few days before he was to be conscripted for a three-year spell in the Red Army, he was in Edmonton, enchanted with Canada after the tragedy, suffering and brutality he had seen in his homeland.

TRYING HARD

He was trying hard to pick up the English language. He had not got far beyond the "yes, no, bread, knife, got, money, work" stage when he heard there was a job awaiting him at Calder's Camp, Alta.

He had seven dollars. The fare to Rocky Mountain House took most of it. He bought some bread.

There was no money for meat for sandwiches.

It was with some difficulty that he could make himself understood well enough to book his fare to Rocky Mountain House. It was bitterly cold.

ZERO WEATHER

Arriving at Rocky Mountain House Ralph found he had 10 miles to go to his next stop after leaving the station.

In zero weather the immigrant youth walked it. Then came the jolt.

It was 20 miles through rough country to the camp. It was impossible to start that day even if he knew the way.

To try it meant death on the trail.

He had 60 cents.

"You will have to stay at a hotel and get a lift in the morning," a storekeeper told him.

He was freezing in the bitter Alberta winter. He was hungry. The bread he had bought in Edmonton had been eaten.

AFRAID TO LINGER

He gazed longingly at the pot-bellied stove in the store, warmed himself, but was afraid to linger for fear he would have been driven out as a bum.

Shivering, he walked the streets and the big logger, carrying blankets, spotted the young five-foot, one-inch immigrant.

The logger walked up to him and asked questions.

Ralph, obsessed with the fear of being mistaken for an idler and possessed of too independent a spirit for his own good in the immediate circumstances, used his limited knowledge of English as best he could to say "I have money. I have job. I go to Calder's Camp."

The logger, however, sized up the situation. Literally by force he took the young man to a restaurant and bought him a meal. Then he took him to a hotel. Then he disappeared.

WITHOUT WORDS

Wondering what was happening but without enough words to understand enough to voice either protests or thanks, Ralph was directed to a bed.

In the morning he was directed to the dining-room for a hearty breakfast.

Then he was handed a two-dollar bill which his independence prompted him to reject, but he was overruled.

The next morning he got a lift to Calder's Camp.

"I have seen several men who look like that logger who gave me my bed and breakfast and saved me from freezing to death. I haven't found him yet."

"Gee, I would like nothing better in the world than to find that guy," Ralph said.

"I shall never quit trying."

Motorcyclist Hurt

Andreas A. I. Valls, 632 Harbinger Avenue, a 17-year-old motorcyclist, was treated at Jubilee Hospital Wednesday night for a head cut and bruises suffered in an accident at Fort and St. Charles Streets.

City police said his motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Helen J. Kjekstad, 812 Blanshard Street. Damage done to vehicles was estimated at $55.

FUND AIDED BY NORMANDY

OTTAWA (CP)—A contribution to Manitoba's flood fund is on the way from the French province of Normandy.

Senator Thomas Vien (L-Quebec) read a letter from the French Red Cross in Normandy saying a donation of money, representing a collection that had been taken among Normandy residents, had been sent to Georges Vanier, Canadian ambassador for France, for forwarding to Manitoba.

Bogus Money Flood Pours Out From Big U.S. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP)—a warning went out Wednesday that New York and Chicago counterfeit rings are turning out bogus money at the rate of $100,000 a month.

The disclosure came with the release of testimony by the United States Secret Service chief, U. E. Baughman, who recently told a Senate appropriations sub-committee:

"More and more criminals are turning to counterfeiting. Additional men and equipment are urgently needed to fight this criminal activity."

Baughman said the bogus-money centres are in New York and Chicago, although he also mentioned St. Louis and several other unspecified areas.

Baughman said his agents seized more than $1,000,000 in counterfeit notes last year, and in the first five months of this year they captured $550,000.

New Deal Being Drafted For Greenland Eskimos

Denmark Plans Extension Of Industries, Balanced Trade, Higher Living Standard

COPENHAGEN (Reuter)—Denmark has a $15,000,000 plan to better the living standard of the 20,000 Eskimos on Greenland by creating new industries and expanding some of the old ones.

The Danish parliament is now considering legislation to implement recommendations made by a special commission which has been studying conditions on her island colony.

The proposed initial expenditure of $15,000,000 is nearly four times the total spent on the island last year. Greenland's New Deal provides for expansion of her main industries—whaling, sealing, trapping and fishing—and creation of new ones such as lead mining. Lead finds, believed to be among the biggest in the world, have recently been made there.

To provide capital for new enterprises, an industrial fund is to be set up under the proposed plan.

First project to be financed would be exploitation of the lead deposits. The fund is also expected to be used to improve the fishing fleet and promote sheep-rearing.

BALANCE SOUGHT

These measures should help the colony balance its foreign payments and avoid the $900,000 deficit it incurred in its trade with Denmark last year. Harbors are to be enlarged to accommodate larger ships, while new ones will be built at the three principal townships. The commission called these "a top priority."

A new power station, sewage plants, improved water supplies and better roads will bring a touch of the mainland comfort to the icebound island—the largest in the world—where men can only thrive on the warmer coastal fringes.

END STATE ENTERPRISE

Trade will continue to be half state-run and half private enterprise. But Denmark hopes to abolish most state enterprise when the educational and technical level of the Eskimos has been raised.

For the first time in its history, the island will have laws and prisons. The laws will be drawn up by a national council, headed by the governor. Policemen, hitherto unknown in Greenland, will enforce the laws.

At present, Danish criminals in Greenland are deported to Copenhagen to be dealt with in Danish courts. The Governor has the power to deport Eskimos in the same way, although in practice this is never done.

FATHERLY TALKS

The Eskimos are law-abiding—theft is almost unknown—and a fatherly talk by the Governor is generally enough to bring a lost sheep back into the fold.

For their general welfare, the Danish government will build more schools and set up a special directorate of education to run them.

A tuberculosis hospital will provide treatment for the 2,000 Eskimos now estimated to be suffering from that disease, and a general hospital is to be built on the south coast.

Finally, the island is to have its first hotel—at West Blue Point, where the airlines from Copenhagen land.

Squash Yield

This 93-pounder, grown in a fertile field near Santiago, is just an average size squash for that part of Chile. Some grow to 125 pounds, and provide a family meal for 10 people for a week. Squash is a staple in many Chilean dishes.

Queen Victoria reigned 63 years, longer than any other British sovereign.

Rare Disease Stated Cured

EDMONTON (BUP)—A new drug which doctors are experimenting with across Canada is credited today with saving the life of carpenter Roy Jackman of Edmonton.

Jackman was a stretcher case when confined two months ago to the University Hospital here with the rare disease, lupus erythematosus. It is described by doctors as a general constitutional disease, cause of which remains a mystery.

A team of University Hospital doctors said the sickness is usually fatal.

However, Jackman walked out of the hospital recently "on his own steam," and is expected to be back at work in a short time, the doctors announced.

They credited the results to cortisone, which was made available in limited quantities to various hospitals across the nation by the National Research Council.

Jackman was the first patient to occupy the Clinical Research bed at the University Hospital. It was endowed by the Edmonton Kinsmen Club.

There are many cars more costly than Pontiac's large and luxurious Chieftains and Streamliners. But few, if any, are finer. When you examine them at your Pontiac dealer's, you will be happy just to sit in a car so obviously right in the good taste and detailed perfection of its styling and appointments. You will be thrilled to drive a car that is so clearly a superb engineering achievement. You will be proud to own—and to be seen driving—such a fine car. So, ask yourself, what more can more costly cars offer? Why pay more?

The Pontiac Chieftains and Streamliners are offered with a choice of either Six- or Eight-Cylinder L-Head engines and with "GM" Hydra-Matic Drive. (Optional at extra cost.)

Brush Wolves Roam Park Area By Ottawa River

OTTAWA (CP)—Brush wolves—packs of grey killers—have been menacing sheep herds on both sides of the Ottawa River and are moving in on Gatineau Park deer herds.

The brush wolves, small vicious animals, possibly the result of cross-breeding with dogs, have taken over the territory once roamed by the great timber wolves of eastern Ontario.

A number of the wolves have been reported in neighboring Carleton Place and Richmond areas, moving with fearless contempt among the residents.

E. S. Richards, Gatineau Park superintendent, says the wolves this spring had been sighted repeatedly on the park's deer trails.

One of the marauders, shot by Howard Fisher of nearby Richmond, weighed roughly 75 pounds. Heavy timber wolves, still found in the upper reaches of the Gatineau and Ottawa Rivers, tip the scales at 150 pounds.

Britons Puzzled At Way Yanks Handle Knife, Fork

U.S. Citizens Abroad Attract Attention With Manners That Vary From British

By VICTOR KALMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—If an American isn't wearing a necktie or yellow shoes, the British still find him by the way he handles a knife and fork.

Britons—and continentals, for that matter—consider the American at the table just one step ahead of the savage. And not a big step, at that.

At noon luncheon time, an American cut his sliver of roast beef, put down his knife and changed his fork to his right hand in the accepted Emily Post manner. An Englishwoman and her young daughter stared at the manoeuvre.

"Why is the man changing hands?" the youngster asked.

"Because," her mother replied, "he comes from America, which is, after all, still a very young country."

WATER ON REQUEST

Then she cut her fish, used the knife to pile a potato on the back of the fork, squashed a few peas against the potato, and, without changing hands, flung the mixture, into her mouth without dropping a pea.

To get a glass of water during a meal you must first convince the waiter you aren't joking. Coffee comes at the end of the meal, after dessert, and the waiter won't bring it earlier unless threatened.

The toughest ordeal comes when eating with a group of British friends at a formal banquet. You finish your hors d'oeuvres and take out a cigarette.

"Not yet, please," the man on your right says, putting the cigarette back in your pocket.

The same thing happens after the fish course, then the meat, then dessert. Finally, someone announces a toast: "Gentlemen, to the King."

Sip your wine. Good. Now it's okay to smoke.

No Housing Shortage In North

Housing costs haven't gone up in the far north and there's no shortage of materials. All you need is the know-how which Sgt. Don Lindsay of Picton, Ont., left, is acquiring from two Eskimo instructors at Cambridge Bay. There R.C.A.F. is operating "survival school," designed to teach fliers how to look after themselves if forced down in Arctic.

Ex-Announcer Complains CBC Hearing Not Free Enough

OTTAWA (CP)—Joel Aldred of Toronto, former CBC announcer, told the Commons committee on radio broadcasting Wednesday he felt there was a "certain degree of marked reluctance" to hear his evidence against the CBC.

He believed a majority of the committee members felt they "must protect the CBC at all costs."

A. L. Smith (P.C.-Calgary West) interjected: "That's all right. Surely we can take it."

Mr. Aldred, dismissed by the CBC in May, 1949, for alleged disloyalty to the CBC, made the statements after he was asked by Dan Riley (L.-St. John-Albert) if he thought he had been given a fair hearing by the committee, before which he appeared at his own request.

The witness said he could give evidence against the CBC but it was clear the committee would classify it as hearsay unless he named CBC employees. That he would not do now or in the future.

Practical Christianity Showing Great World Gains, Says Peale

NEW YORK (AP)—The world now is experiencing the greatest movement toward practical Christianity in history, says Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, one of the leading ministers in the United States and author of inspirational books.

This, he believes, accounts for the way religious and inspirational books have shot to the top of the best-seller lists in the last few years.

The chief characteristic of the world movement is the practical application of the principles of Jesus Christ to personal living," says Dr. Peale.

FINALLY SEE TRUTH

"People are finally waking up to the fact that He was the greatest expert in human nature who ever lived. They are seeking to solve their own problems. And modern ministers have learned to state spiritual techniques in plain old United States talk, which gives them ideas they can understand and use. Look at the churches today and see what throngs are there. This is no temporary vogue. This is a real, long-term, upswing of spiritual values. And it will carry up with it morals and manners. People will become more ethical, more decent, more moral, more gentlemanly and more ladylike."

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

RED LAWSON first realized he was getting old the last time he played hockey in the Willows Horse Show Building.

"It's too tough a game for a man over 30," Red figures. Maybe it is. Lumps on the head lose their glory and just become lumps on the head to an athlete entering his fourth decade.

An amateur sportsman can afford to look at age that way. His game doesn't buy meat and potatoes and he has the satisfaction of looking back on his playing career. Red can go back to the days when he was a roller skating kid with a worn hockey stick playing for the Bank Street gang.

AGE MOVES in quickly on the athlete. If he's a pro he finds himself in a position similar to that of a lot of ordinary working men looking for jobs when they are past 45. For various reasons—and pension plans are among the most important—a man or woman has no easy time picking up work in middle age.

The "after 45" attitude has been ridden too hard in Canada during the last few years. It's due for a change, and that change will be hurried along as soon as those under 45 realize they're the ones who'll have to carry the "after 45's."

The joker in the present outlook is the superannuation scheme. If it's loaded with too large a number of participants who joined when they'd passed the 40-year mark, the strain on the fund for retirement allowances is so heavy that benefits are small for everybody.

THE EVENTUAL outcome of repudiating the older job applicants is sad and costly, both from humanitarian and financial points of view. A person in middle age who can't find work, who is unable to acquire an income from his or her own efforts, becomes a public charge. Those who are earning have to pay more taxes to support that class. In the meantime, the recipient takes a terrific psychological beating.

Psychologists talk about the difficulties of children who feel insecure, who think they are not wanted. What about the adult who's placed in the same position? How does he feel about the techniques of modern medicine and public health that are prolonging life into the 80's if he's washed up as a productive factor at half that age?

THE TOO-OLD-AT-45 point of view doesn't make sense. At Yarrows Ltd. an official, who has had years in which to study the value of workmen in the plant, states definitely that in many instances the older workers are best. They're steadier, he says. They were trained at a time when it wasn't so easy to get their money. They developed a respect for their job. If they began when the regular working day lasted 10 hours, modern shifts look pretty good to them. That goes, the official says, for men up to 60. At that age they can't do heavy work, but they make fewer mistakes.

Men who specialize in questions of personnel find a similar condition prevailing among office workers. Years of experience count more often than youth. Today, new employees are being screened fairly carefully. A good type of young worker is getting the preference, but the old-timer has a lot to his credit.

PERSONNEL EXPERTS don't often make blanket statements. They admit the younger to work, provided they're willing to work, learn new methods more quickly. They acknowledge the fact that some people who have been in the job too long become fuddy-duddies. But they ask you which clerk you prefer when you're in a store to buy something? The inference is that the middle-aged woman or man is the more satisfactory.

In the city's outside gangs, foremen report some of the best work done by employees 40 to 45 and over. At that age they know the job that has to be done and—probably because they have more respect for job opportunities than their less experienced juniors who reached the labor market when work was plentiful—they see that the job is done.

FIGURE IT from the youngsters' point of view. A juvenile has to go to school until he's 15. If he passes through high school, he's 18 or 19 before he looks for steady work. In the next 20 or 25 years, he has to make enough—if the "too old at 45" idea is carried to an extreme—to care for himself, raise his family, buy his home, and make some provision for the little extras of the second half of his own life. In addition he has to help look after those who are "too old at 45."

That's quite a packet to hand a bright-eyed teen-ager on graduation day.

Island Chamber Men At Sidney

Present at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Sidney this morning were these out-of-town members. Standing at the back, from left to right: F. H. McGregor, Tofino; Harvey Bool, Courtenay; Bruce Armstrong, Nanaimo,

Victoria As Highway Terminus Accepted By Island Chambers

By Times Correspondent
SIDNEY—The provincial government's decision to select Victoria as the western terminus of the Trans-Canada Highway, was accepted today in a revised highway policy of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island at Sidney. In taking the new stand, the chambers at the same time urged the B.C. government to give a firm commitment as to whether the Tofino Road would be built and asked them to state whether it would be a main highway or a feeder road; type of construction, whether gravel or hard surface, and order of priority in relations to other roads to be constructed.

Administrator Arrives Friday

George E. Masters, former assistant director of Vancouver General Hospital, who will take up his new appointment as administrator at Royal Jubilee Hospital Monday, will arrive with his family from Vancouver Friday morning.

Mr. Masters, who is vice-president of B.C. Hospitals' Association and member of the co-ordinating committee of Western Canada Institute for Hospital Administrators, joined Vancouver General in 1935 as assistant director in 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Masters, with their seven-year-old son, will make their home at 3085 Uplands Road.

As a result of this new policy, the Tofino chamber withdrew its resolution pressing for the terminus at Tofino. The Sooke, Jordan River chamber withdrew its resolution recommending all possible pressure be brought to bear on the government.

Unanimous approval was given a Port Alberni resolution urging the association to request the B.C. government to secure and set aside for provincial park purposes a stand of timber located on the south fork of Englishman's River.

The association also passed a resolution asking that the B.C. government maintain careful observation of the changing situations on Salt Spring Island regarding increased population and to secure increased ferry service to the island.

OFFER FROM B.C.E.

To Sponsor Concerts In Beacon Hill

An offer to sponsor another series of Wednesday night concerts in Beacon Hill Park was received by Mayor Percy George today from E. W. Arnott, vice-president of the B.C. Electric Railway Co.

Tentative arrangements have been made with James M. Miller to conduct the concert, eight in number, with a talented band of local musicians and selected artists, Mr. Arnott wrote.

He asked that the company be notified in the offer meets with the approval of city officials. The first concert would be held July 5 and then July 12, 19 and 26 and Aug. 2, 9, 16 and 23.

Jr. High Students Receive Awards At Assembly

For the first time in the history of the school, special service badges were presented to a number of students at Central Junior High School during an outdoor assembly held today. Crests for athletic ability also were given.

Following introductory remarks by Principal Arthur T. Hunkin, the presentations were made. George Grant, physical education supervisor for Greater Victoria, gave green, red and white crests to members of the winning leagues in the inter-house sports.

Miss Olive W. Heritage presented specially-designed badges to Ruth Sones, Joyce Taylor, Rosemary Blett, Marilyn Chung, Bill Kinsey and Jean Seto in recognition of outstanding services performed since the beginning of the school term.

Members of the school traffic patrol also received special badges for their regular attendance and devotion to duty. Sgt. Brooke Douglass made these awards to Ian Dyke, Chester Sapia, Peter Williamson, Don Paulin, Bill Woodbury, Don Ethell, Jim Watson and Don Leckie.

Red Cross Course Helps Save Lives

Now that the summer season is here, hundreds of people are flocking to beaches and lakes every day. Most of them will enjoy their outing. But others will never return to their homes—they will drown. Victoria has had one fatality already this year.

In 1948, 158 persons were drowned in B.C. Last year the figure was cut to 131, of whom 52 were between five and 30 years of age. This year, the Red Cross, through its swimming and water safety program, is working to decrease the number of drownings by educating young and old in water safety rules. The Red Cross began this program in 1944 and has achieved great success.

PASSED COURSE

Last week in Victoria, 15 people passed the Red Cross swimming instruction course. Out of this class, which was under the supervision of A. W. Thiesen, Vancouver, seven persons became qualified instructors and three provisional instructors. Five who were already instructors took a refresher course.

The Red Cross has found that in Canada only one out of every 10 people can swim. The surest way to prevent a person from drowning is to teach him early in life how to swim.

That is why the Red Cross is teaching men and women to instruct swimming. They feel by doing this they are teaching more people to swim than they could do themselves. Mrs. S. Brimblecombe, local chairman of the Red Cross swimming and water safety division, reports that instructor candidates are brought here, and to other central locations, expense free, and given the four-day instructors' course. By doing this, the Red Cross is sending qualified instructors all over the country.

Many are still of university and high school age and often are able to find summer employment at good wages teaching swimming. Any organization or service club which has classes it wishes to train in swimming, is urged to contact the Red Cross and obtain the services of qualified instructors.

Another Trick Of Nature Finds Way To Times Office

It seemed nature is leaning a little towards the abnormal this year if specimens of her freakish tendencies reported to the Times are any indication.

First were multi-headed tulips, then an egg shaped like a teapin. Now, another of nature's children has decided to throw her hat in the ring for the "honor" of being "Miss Misfit of 1950."

A large head of cabbage purchased by Mrs. June Johnson, 1166 View Street, was opened and in it were six perfectly-formed miniature cabbages.

Watch Shoplifting Admitted In Court

Gordon Young, 20-year-old Victoria man, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of stealing a $12 wrist watch from Clubb's tobacco store.

He was remanded to Saturday for sentence. Magistrate H. C. Hall asked for medical and probation officer's reports on accused. Detective Louis Callan told the court Young stole the watch and later sold it at a second-hand store.

Flood Fund Near Half-Way Mark, Says Winnipeg

Winnipeg reported today that its Flood Relief Fund was almost at the half-way mark. The total figure Wednesday night stood at $4,672,522. The objective is $10,000,000.

Meanwhile, Victoria's City Hall reported that $19,429.48 had been collected up to today. An additional $5,000 has been promised by the city, and contributions received at the Victoria Times, CJVI and the Daily Colonist total $3,615.

Seven dollars was added to the fund by a group of enterprising youngsters who raised the money through the sale of refreshments.

They were Norman Wilkinson, 13; Joanne Pedneault, 10; Barry Dayton, nine; Lawrence Hall, 11; Michael Kolb, 11 and Ray Feild, 10.

Purchase Approved

Provincial cabinet has approved purchase by Oak Bay municipality of $9,000 road-building machinery. Cabinet approval was required because money is being taken from tax sale lands receipts.

GANGES—Nearly 1,000 pioneers and visitors are on Salt Spring Island today for the Gulf Island Pioneers' celebration, sponsored by Gavin Mouat, himself a resident of Salt Spring 57 years today.

For the celebrations, pioneers are classed as persons who were resident on the Gulf Islands prior to June 15, 1900.

From as far away as Vale, Ore., and from all over Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, pioneers converged on Ganges to renew old acquaintances and talk over old times "neath sunny skies."

Harbor House walls were covered with old-time pictures of residents and buildings dating as far back as 1885.

Premier Byron Johnson, Arthur Ash, and Andrew Whisker, M.L.A.'s, and Mayor and Mrs. Percy George also attended the celebration.

Among old-timers present were

Suspended Sentence

Caught after breaking into the C.P.R. wharf coffee shop recently by a company policeman, Melvin S. Rees, 19, was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

He was ordered to post a $500 bond for behaviour and promised Magistrate Hall he would not drink any more liquor until he is 21 years old. Liquor was judged a contributing factor in his case.

Heart Attack Kills Man From Prairies

Mrs. Leon Dick and Mrs. Dick Maxwell, who were born on Salt Spring Island 70 years ago today.

88TH ANNIVERSARY
Percy Pavia, who was married at St. Mark's Church, Salt Spring Island, 58 years ago today, is a visitor from Vale, Ore., with his son and daughter. He was honored at a presentation this afternoon.

William Caldwell, known to islanders as "Uncle Bill," has been a Salt Spring resident since 1883. A contractor by trade, he claims to have built the opera house in Vancouver. Harry Caldwell, brother of "Uncle Bill," and his wife, have been on the island continuously since 1884 and 1882, respectively, and have been married more than 60 years.

Mrs. C. Wood of Victoria came to Salt Spring Island 76 years ago and is a descendant of the colored people who were among original settlers of the island. Her father, Arthur Gwynne, was a slave.

BOUGHT FROM SLAVERY

Another colored person, Ernest L. Harrison, is another descendant of slaves. His mother and grandmother were slaves and the grandfather bought them out of slavery at so much a head. Ernest is a graduate of Oberlin College in Ohio.

The Gulf Islands ferry Cy Peck was running a continuous shuttle service between Fulford and Swartz Bay to accommodate the visitors.

First ferry today had to leave 15 cars behind, and many of the visitors left their cars at Swartz Bay and transportation was arranged for them from Fulford to Ganges.

Take To The Outdoors, Kids,
Garden Furniture's Arrived!

By PENNY SAVER

I had just finished arranging my new set of garden furniture this morning, when in pops my friend Mabel Slapsaddle, couldn't be happier to see anyone than you. Just focus your baby blue eyes on the lawn. "A pause while Mabel puts on glasses. "A sight for sore eyes, don't you think?" I watched my long-time friend become greener by the half-minute, then she replied, "Cape Cod, isn't it? Never cared for it myself. I prefer modernistic lines. Make it yourself!"

With my nose well out of joint—in fact almost out of sight—I replied: "Just a minute, Mabel, this is the type of furniture you see displayed in fashion and home and garden books. Considered very chic, I'll have you know!"

Can't account for my good friend's attitude, possibly the little horns that were beginning to show through her spring bonnet had something to do with it, but she listened with only half an ear as I told her how I had come by the set.

Actually, it is about the most reasonable way to furnish an outdoor room. The white wood of Cape Cod furniture can be left unpainted or with a few color schemes in mind you can have yourself a great time painting to your heart's delight. A single chair features comfortable wide arm rests and sells for $4.95. The love-seat, the size of two chairs put together, is $9.95, and a set of olive green cushions, with smart metal buttons, are yours for another $4.95. To complete the garden set you'll have to have the outdoor coffee table which stands about 19 inches high, for $3.95. If you're not using the little table you can always make it do double duty by using the 18-by-36-inch top as a tray. Storing this piece of furniture is a cinch because of its compactness.

To serve suppers or lunch, the luncheon table will prove a pride and joy. It stands 28 inches high and measures 24 by 36 inches wide. The sum of $4.95 is the price.

Mabel was now showing some signs of interest, so I hurriedly told her about the camp stools, the kind you can fold up to put in the car on picnic jaunts or simply carry to a baseball or lacrosse game, that sell for as little as $1.29. As easy to carry as an envelope and the little canvas seat is comfortable, too.

Bold striped deck chairs for $3.26, and $4.99 for the chair that features a supported seat and back. The squat-type of porch chair sells for $4.75. Mabel perked up her ears when I told her about the all-metal chairs in modernistic design, which sell for $7.95 in bright green or red.

After all the gabbling on my part I finally gave Mabel her chance to put in two bits worth. Says she: "Where did you say you bought this? Not that I'm interested, mind, but I might go along to take a look."

I told my friend the whereabouts, then bid her a hearty "thank you and good afternoon!"

YOUR BABY

As children grow they find themselves in conflict with their own family and their own environment and they react to their conflicts in typical fashion. This results in behavior that is characteristic of their age because the experiences of most children are similar.

Perhaps our greatest knowledge of children has come from the research work done everywhere on development behavior. You can't repudiate what is now common knowledge.

For instance, the child just learning to be sociable is the one who tends to scratch, bite and kick. This behavior inspired oftentimes by excitement and his inability to express it properly, than to meanness.

Our leaflet No. 72, "When the Child Says, 'No,'" may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldrid in care of this newspaper.

Mrs. W. E. Akenhead has returned to her Quadra Street home after attending the christening ceremonies for her grandson, Gary Douglas, in St. John's Anglican (Shaughnessy) Church, Vancouver. The young principal, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Akenhead of Port Coquitlam, wore a christening robe that had been worn by five generations of his mother's family. Other grandparents are Mr. Akenhead, Victoria, who was unable to attend the Vancouver service, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Mawer, Vancouver. His aunt, Mrs. Noel Mawer, of this city, with Charles Mawer, Calgary, and Reginald Mawer, Vancouver, his uncles, were sponsors.

Mrs. H. Huston, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. George Milburn of Swift Current, Sask., were among guests at the wedding of Miss Louise Lyne and Mr. Rodney Lammers last evening. Other guests from out-of-town included Mrs. R. H. Church and Miss Rosalie Church, Williams Lake, and Mrs. Douglas P. King, Seattle.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By MARGUERITE DALZIEL

Although the classic suit is still tops in the fashion world, there is always an outcrop of new types of ensembles for the woman who prefers something just a little different and unusual.

This season the emphasis seems to be on waists and shoulder lines.

The boxy jacket and tight skirt is a favored addition to the wardrobe of both the young and the older woman, as long as the latter has not put on too much weight.

The finger-tip jacket is loose enough at the back to make the skirt seem narrower than it really is.

The beauty of this type of suit, lies in its versatility for it can also double with a second suit skirt for a "separate" ensemble.

Waists on jackets are still a focal point in many suits. Designers are using wide belts to put in loose jackets to hug the waist and give a bloused effect above a gathered peplum. The shirt-cuffed sleeves are a new fashion trend, popular because of their neatness.

Buttons, too, are still popular and on many suits, are ornamenting flap pockets, the neckline, and the skirt front from waist to hem continuing the buttoned line of the jacket.

North Ward — A talk on the forthcoming school by-law will be given at North Ward P.T.A. meeting in the school auditorium Monday at 8. Following business, a social will be held and refreshments served.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am the most unhappy girl in the world because the boy that I am in love with doesn't care beans about me. What can I do about it?

BOBBY G.

Answer: Absolutely nothing. Love is not an emotion that can be compelled. It comes and goes as it will and no one knows why. It is a matter of taste, of the imagination, of some subtle appeal, and if you do not have it for a boy, you simply lack it, and that is all there is to it.

Your best plan is to quit thinking about him and turn your affections upon some more responsive youth.

Graduates of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, from the first classes to the present, are gathered in Victoria this week. At a reception in the Nurses' Home yesterday, Mrs. Frank Ellis, second from left, the former Miss Agnes Johnson, class of 1902, cut the 50th anniversary cake. With her are, left to right, Mrs. Frank L. Egerton, Santa Barbara, the former Miss Blackmore, class of 1905; Mrs. R. Ditch-burn, president, St. Joseph's School of Nursing Alumnae; Mrs. H. E. Ridewood, convener of homecoming week program, and Miss Veronica Jackson, graduate of the class of 1950. Chinese embroidered cutwork cloth beneath the cake was loaned by Miss M. Ashley, class of 1928. Cake was made and decorated by alumnae members Mrs. I. Moore and Mrs. R. Kersey.

Sister Mary Peter, former supervising sister in the nursing school, was centre of an ever-changing group of "her girls" during the afternoon. Left to right, are seen Miss Agnes Brown, 1916; Mrs. Walter Miles (Olive Scaplan), 1920; Mrs. L. A. McLaughlan, Chemainus (Grace Leding-ham), 1921; Miss Flossie Knight, 1918; Miss Lillian Fecker, Portland, 1916; Mrs. A. D. J. Pitts, Saanich (Peggy McKenzie), 1920; Mrs. Fred Wastell, Telegraph Cove and Victoria (Emma McCoskie), 1920; Mrs. Lillian B. Smith (Miss Robson), 1920. (Photos by Bud Barker)

Memories Span Arches Of Fifty Years At St. Joseph's Nurses' First Reunion

By ELIZABETH FORBES
"Do you remember?"
Yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital Nurses' Home, these three words were a magic key used to awaken a flood of memories that spanned the arches of years from the present, back to the beginning of the century.

Occasion was a reception marking the first day of the golden jubilee anniversary of the hospital's nursing school and the first homecoming week in the school's history.

More than 296 graduates registered for the anniversary from widely scattered points in the United States, and many of the provinces in Canada.

Those who couldn't come sent letters and in one instance a huge box of exotic flowers arrived by air from Honolulu.

"They are from Grace Oliver," said Miss Isla Adams, who was a member of the same class, "she sent me this white orchid. I'm wearing it. She's growing them as a hobby."

The auditorium rang with the sound of many voices as friends met again for the first time in years.

REMINISCING
"Remember me?" a tall grey-haired woman said as she joined one group, "I'm Brownie."

"Oh! Brownie!" was the combined cry and the whole group dissolved into laughter.

Sister Mary Peter, whose year card said "class of 1900 was meeting many of her girls" again for the first time since graduation days, and she, too, had a host of memories.

"Remember the day I was scolding you," she said to a brown-eyed, laughing-faced woman, "and you backed up and fell in the clothes basket?"

"Indeed I do," was the answer, "and you just looked at me and told me to go back to work."

As the tiny form of Sister Mary Peter moved away a member of the group murmured, "And remember the night we were cooking bacon and eggs after hours and we heard the rattle of Sister Peter's keys and had to ditch the food under the cupboard?"

"We thought we were very smart hearing those keys rattle," she continued, "but looking back now I've no doubt they were rattled on purpose so we would hear them."

Sister Mary Grace, now supervisor at Mount St. Mary and Mrs. Bunny Reid, Victoria, had memories in common, for it was Mrs. Reid, then Miss Hare, graduate of the class of 1926, who gave Sister Grace her first instructions the day she joined the nursing school as a probationer.

"I showed Sister Grace how to give her first hypo," Mrs. Reid said, and Sister Mary Grace quickly added, "and I was so scared I simply don't know how I managed to give it."

In turn Sister Mary Grace was surrounded by members of classes in more recent years whom she had shown how to give their first hypo.

Groups formed before class pictures, hanging around the walls of the auditorium, and again there was much friendly bantering as classmates discovered their faces in the groups.

One or two stopped, too, at the scroll of honor, listing the names of nursing sisters who had served in the three services during the two world wars.

Miss Nell Meagher whose name is on the scroll and who is now a member of the Red Cross Blood Bank at Winnipeg, was present in her smart grey uniform. She left later in the afternoon for California on a holiday trip.

The whole afternoon was a whirl of excitement. And as one graduate said, "There's nothing like nurses when they get together — especially when they haven't seen each other in years."

Colors of the nursing school, red, white and gold, were used to decorate the auditorium.

Centring the refreshment table was an arrangement of white stocks and pyrethrums, red carnations and golden iris, flanked by red candles in silver candelabra.

Mrs. R. Ditchburn, president of St. Joseph's Nursing School Alumnae, with Mrs. A. Searle, convener of the reception, and Mrs. H. E. Ridewood, convener of homecoming week program, received guests and were assisted by Mesdames E. Shelley, V. Kercher, H. Meadows, M. Stonier, E. Gancy and Miss M. Ashley.

Presiding at the urns were Mrs. J. M. Fowler, Mrs. L. L. Ptak, Mrs. S. G. Kenning, Mrs. S. H. Beck, Mrs. F. M. Bryant, Mrs. A. Jones, Mrs. W. H. Moore and Mrs. J. H. Moore.

Y.P. SOCIETIES

Vancouver Island Presbytery—Twelve members, including two visitors from Duncan Young People's Union, attended monthly meeting of Vancouver Island Presbytery Young People's Union. Guests were Miss Pat Brownsey and Don Campbell. Plans were made for the first beach party at Beaver Lake on Tuesday. Members will meet at Metropolitan Church at 7:30 Tuesday, and every other Tuesday during the summer. Plans were discussed for the fall rally in Duncan in September. Devotional was given by Miss Nora Wolfe.

Rotary Women's Auxiliary Earns $160 At Garden Fete

Crisp, white-clothed tea tables, informally arranged beneath huge oak trees, and attractive stalls decked in purple and gold, color motif of Victoria Rotary Women's Auxiliary, created the setting for the garden party, sponsored by the auxiliary in the garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McGill, Tattersall Drive, yesterday.

The sum of $160 was realized. Auxiliary president, Mrs. J. J. Hobbs, with Mrs. A. Fitch, general convener, and Mrs. McGill welcomed visitors.

Mrs. Percy E. George, in officially opening the fete, spoke of the fine work of the auxiliary, especially in their latest project, that of furnishing a house at Sunshine camp. She was presented with a corsage bouquet of roses by Mrs. Fitch.

Garden library amusements drew the attention of the very young set attending, while adults enjoyed tea and patronized the various stalls.

Mrs. A. Anderson and Mrs. C. Brown were in charge of candy sales; Mrs. J. McKay, Mrs. R. Snyder, Mrs. M. Sands, flowers; Mrs. F. Butterfield, Mrs. Percy Watson and Mrs. H. A. Johnston, novelties; Mesdames A. H. Kerr, A. J. Cowie, W. Gilmore and S. Frame, home cooking; Mrs. G. I. Warren and Mrs. R. Cruickshanks, pop.

Ice cream vendors were Dale Heal and Evelyn Wilkinson and lady of 1,000 pockets, Mrs. A. R. Roberts.

In charge of gate receipts were Mrs. George Alexander and Mrs. J. Heal.

Tea convener, Mrs. E. Morry, was assisted by Mesdames G.

B.C. Executive To Meet Here

Members of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association of British Columbia will hold an executive meeting in Victoria on Friday in Prince Robert House. A luncheon has been planned by Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association at Strathcona Hotel at which Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Finance, will be guest speaker. For reservations members may phone Mrs. C. Smith, E.4341 or Mrs. H. Bethaby, E.0992. Executive meetings will continue at 10 a.m. and 2:30.

Duck, L. C. Martin, H. A. Arnold, E. A. Hobbs, W. Clarke, A. Lindsay, L. Bing, H. Street, W. Fletcher, E. H. Wilkinson and J. H. Aldred.

During the afternoon an exhibition of Highland and Irish dancing was given by pupils of Adeline Duncan, accompanied by Pipe-Major Ray Gandy.

The young dancers were Jean and Violet Robertson, Lorna Urwin, Heather Duncan, Kathleen Roberts, Margaret Baird, Jocelyn Young, Heather Hamilton, Sally and Ann Noble, Rita Taylor and Valerie Woods.

To Present Prize — It was decided at the regular meeting of Esquimalt Chapter, I.O.D.E., to again present the runner-up prize to a student at Lampson Street School. Mrs. G. A. R. Steick presided and donations were voted to education, $25; child welfare, $10; endowment fund, $15; work in India, $2 and peace garden, $1. Mrs. C. L. Bishop gave a report on the successful Maytime Revue. Mrs. G. P. Clarke, postwar convener read a letter from the chapter's adopted old-age pensioner in England in appreciation of the regular food parcel. Treasurer, Mrs. A. A. Warder reported a balance of $508.82. Afternoon tea was served.

Newlyweds Louise Lyne, Rod Lammers Plan Future Home At Prince George

Oak Bay United Church was the setting for the double-ring wedding service last evening in which Lillian Louise Lyne and Rodney Gilmer Lammers exchanged vows.

Following a week's honeymoon at Deep Cove, the couple will leave for Prince George, where the groom, son of Wyman L. Lammers and Mrs. John Regan, is on the staff of the Bank of Montreal.

The daughter of Mrs. G. H. Lyne, 2474 McNeill Avenue, and the late Mr. Lyne, was given in marriage by her brother, Herbert Lyne.

Her bridal gown was fashioned of white figured organdy mounted over satin, the bouffant skirt drifting into a long train, and the snug bodice, buttoned from the Peter Pan collar to the pointed waist.

Her veil, misting from a bandeau of carnations, was loaned by the groom's aunt, Mrs. C. B. Watson. She carried pink roses and carnations in her cascade bouquet.

In organza over taffeta gowns similar to the bridal motif but with tiny sleeves, were bridal attendants, Miss Margaret Wright in lemon yellow and Miss Elizabeth Foote in turquoise.

They wore bandeaux with side clusters of pastel sweet peas and feathered carnations, and carried similar blossoms in their crescent bouquets.

William Dempsey was best man. Ushering were Ken Hurn and Brian Ainscough.

Wedding guests were welcomed at a reception at the home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Watson, "Arnelcliffe" 3460

A silver vase, filled with sweet heart roses, topped the three-tier wedding cake, and the dainty blossoms in silver holders and tall white candles in silver candelabra completed the table decor.

Later the bride changed to a three-piece pale blue gabardine suit complemented with crisp white and navy-toned accessories for traveling. Her corsage bouquet was of pink roses.

One of the features of the affair will be a special stall of articles made by ex-patients in the home, and there will also be stalls of aprons and home cooking.

During the afternoon pupils of Adeline Duncan will entertain with Highland dancing.

Proceeds will be used to purchase furnishings for the proposed new wing of the nursing home.

Chatelaine Officers
Mrs. Margaret Cooper was elected president of Chatelaine Club at a recent meeting. Other officers are Mrs. Edythe Holsworth, vice-president; Mrs. Ruth Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Ellen Allen, secretary, and Mrs. Dorothy DeCosta, refreshment convener.

MOTION FOR PREFERENCE SINGLE GIRLS DEFEATED

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—It was single girls versus married women in a major controversy at a session of the Ladies' Auxiliaries to B.C. Command, Canadian Legion, in debating a resolution asking that single girls be given preference over married women in employment.

The Kelowna Branch auxiliary's resolution that owing to unemployment working girls should be given preference of jobs now held by married women whose husbands are willing and able to support them, was defeated after a rousing debate.

One delegate shouted that some women were working for good salaries while their husbands "are pulling in hundreds" and single girls are walking the streets. Others pointed out that many married women worked to help support invalid parents or relatives. In any case, said one delegate, employers could hardly be forced to fire married women and give their jobs to less experienced or less capable girls. The motion was defeated by a close vote.

Speed And Handicap Sections In London-Christchurch Event

By J. C. GRAHAM

CHRISTCHURCH N.Z. (CP)—An air race from London to Christchurch, scheduled for 1953, will be the longest race in aviation history. It is likely to provide an entirely new conception of the possibilities of long-distance flying.

Sponsored by the Canterbury International Air Race Council of this city, with the assistance of the Royal Aero Club, London, the race will be divided into two sections—speed and handicap. The handicap section is unique in that the entrants will probably be chiefly leading world airlines which will send fully-loaded passenger airliners over the route.

Experts are already speculating whether, with the present rate of improvement in aircraft speeds, the race will be won in a single day. It is estimated that existing jet fighters, equipped with special fuel tanks, could cover the distance in 30 hours flying time. New types developed by them are likely to cut the time considerably.

Already provisional entries have been made by British Overseas Airways Corporation, British European Airways Corporation, Royal Dutch Airlines (K.L.M.) and Quantas Empire Airways. U.S. airlines are also showing interest in the project and there are prospect of a Boeing Stratocruiser and an American jet airliner being entered.

BRITISH ENTRIES

Among British manufacturers, the Armstrong Whitworth Company has provisionally entered its Apollo II turbo-jet powered with four Armstrong-Siddeley Mamba 8 gas turbine units. The De Havilland Company has entered but has not yet stated whether its entry will be its record-breaking Comet jet airliner or a new aircraft in the speed section.

Other airlines and manufacturers are likely to make entries when the full rules and conditions are announced. Already a great deal of preliminary work has been done and representatives of the organizing committee have discussed the project with civil aviation authorities, airlines and manufacturers in Australia, India, England, many European countries and the United States. The route will be via the Middle East—from England to Basra, Calcutta, Singapore, Australia and New Zealand.

Prizes will be $30,000 for first in both the speed and handicap sections, $9,000 for second, $3,000 for third and $1,500 for fourth. However, in an event of this magnitude the prestige of winning is of far greater importance to the firms concerned and the prize money is likely to be a fairly minor consideration with most of the entrants.

Politician In Alberta Makes Fine Violins

EDMONTON (CP)—Because a bank clerk once traded boxing instruction for music lessons, Alberta's present cabinet includes a skilled violin maker.

He is C. E. Gerhart, Provincial Secretary and Minister of Municipal Affairs.

The first fiddle he hand-fashioned is one of his most treasured possessions, appraised by at least one concert violinist at what Mr. Gerhart will only state is a "fabulous" figure.

He is carving a second from the same pattern as the first. Three others are planned so that each one of his children and grandchildren will have one. Mr. Gerhart first became interested in the hobby when he was a bank clerk at Stettler, Alta. An amateur boxer, he made a deal with a musician to teach him the violin in exchange for boxing lessons.

This led to the fiddle-making project. Bed-ridden with a knee injury, Mr. Gerhart saw a violin pattern in a magazine. He started to work and in seven months had finished the job.

The second one is taking longer to complete, although in the meantime Mr. Gerhart has developed a set of precision tools for the job. These were fashioned from an old set of dentist's instruments he begged from a friend.

The minister expects to complete his second violin by Christmas, and by then he expects to have the third started.

Mrs. Gerhart finds her husband's hobby satisfactory. Much of the work is so delicate that an entire evening spent at the hobby produces only half a teaspoon of wood shavings.

The first gasoline buggy in the United States was operated in Springfield, Mass., in 1893.

1928 Auto Tested With Perfect Score

ESTEVAN, Sask. (BUP)—You can't tell a car's condition by its looks, operators of the provincial care-testing unit said here. A 1928 model Plymouth tested here had a perfect score, whereas many later-model cars were defective. Faulty brakes and headlights were the most common defects.

Only about one-third of the cars tested "OK" the first time through.

Search Under Way For Rare Flightless Bird

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—Careful observation of the colony of notornis, the "extinct" bird rediscovered after half a century in a remote corner of southwest New Zealand, has led to a revision of the estimated numbers remaining alive.

It is now thought that the total number in the colony is not much more than 20, so a hard fight is still ahead if the species is not to die out.

In an effort to find if any more colonies of the bird exist, Dr. G. B. Orbell, discoverer of the one known colony, has undertaken an aerial survey of a large part of the rugged forest-covered region in which the bird was made.

He looked for small open areas of snow grass, on which the bird lives, and a number of the birds were marked on maps.

A number of expeditions have been made to these points, involving difficult journeys through wild uninhabited country. In only one of them were distinctive signs of the notornis found, but bad weather prevented the expedition from making a full cover of its area and no birds were seen. So it is not known for certain if there is a second colony in existence, or what its size is.

Numerous scientific expeditions have been made to study the one known colony since its discovery late in 1948. The expeditions have been limited to three persons and extreme precautions have been taken to disturb the birds as little as possible.

Because of the wide interest in the discovery by scientists throughout the world, extensive still and movie records of the life of the birds have been made and a detailed natural history of the species is being prepared by Dr. R. A. Falla, director of the Dominion Museum, who has led several of the expeditions to the site.

One of the major tasks carried out for the preservation of the species has been a campaign to wipe out stoats and deer in the locality. These animals are a danger to the colony and scientists hope the extermination campaign will give it a much better chance of survival.

ONLY 2 EGGS

The birds lay no more than two eggs at a sitting, and in no case has an adult pair reared more than one chick since the birds have been under observation.

There is apparently a low rate of fertility and hatching, which means few chicks are reared. At the most, three chicks resulted from six pairs of birds actually known to have nested in the last season.

At a result of the close study of the habits of the birds it is hoped eventually to establish a new colony in safe surroundings with one or two pairs of young birds, but the numbers in the colony are so few that until more detailed study is completed it is not considered safe to remove any now there.

The sub-alpine lake where the birds were found is known to the Maoris as Hohaka Takahia, which means "nests of the notornis," so it appears that the species has existed in this locality for a long time, even though Europeans and Maoris did not know that a colony of the birds still survived there.

Modern refineries bring to Canada new B-A 88 and 98 Gasolines

The most modern refineries in Canada are now producing new B-A 88 and 98 gasolines.

40 years of research and development have resulted in this gasoline achievement.

B-A has added huge new catalytic cracking and catalytic polymerization units to their refining processes. And with this modern process equipment in operation, B-A can now supply Canadian motorists with new B-A 88 gasoline—excellent performance with economy... and new B-A 98 gasoline—peak performance in any car.

And modern process equipment and techniques make the newest B-A refinery not only one of the largest gasoline producing units in Canada, but one of the most modern in the world.

Yes, today there is a new high in performance, a new high in economy of gasoline. New B-A 88 and 98 gasolines give you more power, better performance, greater economy.

There's a new experience awaiting you at your B-A service station. Drive in today and fill up with new B-A 88 or 98 gasoline! You'll get more power and better performance than ever before! At the sign of the big B-A.

TIMES DAILY SERIAL

FINGERPRINTS DON'T LIE

THE STORY: At the behest of Annie Palmer, private detective Martin Queripel is trying to clear her fiancé, Paul Moody, of the charge of murdering her father, Wendell Palmer. Fingerprints found on the telephone used to bludgeon Palmer are Moody's, police say. Queripel goes to the police Crime Laboratory to question detective James Stivers who discovered the prints and photographed them. Queripel asks to see the telephone from which the prints were taken. As the private detective studies the cellophane-wrapped phone through a magnifying glass it is apparent he has seen something that will be important to the solution of the case.

INSTALLMENT 22

Martin Queripel picked up the tapes carrying the eight fingerprints labeled "telephone base." He studied these prints of Paul Moody's hands, then held them close to the cellophane telephone and examined them with intense intensity.

Finally he looked up at Stivers and said:

"Could you have these two tapes blown up for me?"

"As a matter of fact, I've already done just that," said Stivers. "I had the job done to show in court."

With a crafty smile, Queripel asked:

"Could you let me put my eight fingers on the bottom of that telephone and take the prints of them and lift them?"

Stivers laughed: "You know I can't."

"Not even if I said 'Please!'" Queripel wheedled.

NO RIBBING

"Not even if you said 'Pretty please!' Nobody rubs that telephone till it reaches court."

Canadian Indian Women In Movie

TORONTO (CP)—Two Canadians were picked Wednesday to test for the leading feminine role in Clark Gable's next movie, "Across the Wide Missouri."

It calls for a "fiery" Indian maiden, said Billy Grady, talent director for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. From more than 25 applicants he picked Dorothy Beauvais, 25, part-French, part-Iroquois postmistress of Ste. Marguerite, Que., and Wanda Big Canoe, a full-blooded Ojibway from Georgina Island Reserve in Lake Simcoe, 60 miles north of here.

Foresees Six-Hour Atlantic Crossings

MONTREAL (BUP)—Engineering Director J. Dymont of Trans-Canada Air Lines has predicted six-hour air crossings of the Atlantic within 10 years.

In an address here, he went a bit farther to forecast east-west continental hops will be possible in four hours.

"The future of the turbo-jet is in a state of evolution at the present time," he commented. He outlined existing methods in aircraft industries and described procedures now under development.

Queripel looked like a child denied something terribly desired. Suddenly he moved to Stivers' desk, lifted his telephone and studied the base. It was covered with a kind of thick felt to soften any shock and any vibration.

He compared Stivers' instrument with the base of the Palmer telephone, and said:

"These phones are exactly alike, aren't they?"

Stivers nodded.

Queripel wheedled again. "Will you let me press my fingers underneath your telephone, and take the prints?"

Stivers nodded with a patient smile.

Queripel added: "And blow them up to the size of these blown-up Moody prints?"

Stivers again nodded his head and took from his kit the necessary powders, brushes, and tapes.

When he was ready, Queripel said: "First, let's reconstruct the crime as I see it. It seems to me that Wendell Palmer suddenly realized the murderous intentions of his visitor. He made a dash for the telephone. The unknown visitor tried to take it from him."

ONE CLEAR MARK

"That seems to be the way it was," said Stivers. "The handset was covered with fingerprints, but they were all smudged up so that I couldn't distinguish them. Here are my photographs. You see there's only one clear mark, that thumbprint up close to the mouthpiece."

"Whose thumb is that?" Queripel asked, pointing.

"I don't know. It isn't Moody's. It isn't Palmer's. It isn't his daughter's or her friend Miss Fennell's. It might be the butler's or the gardener's. But both were away from the house. I was going to verify it later. There's no knowing yet whose it is."

"It might even be—" Queripel caught the word "Kelso's" before it clicked at his lips. Stivers did not notice the suppression. Queripel said: "Let's get on with the reconstruction of the crime. You're the dead man."

"Thanks."

"I'm the murderer."

"That's better. Nice of you to confess."

"You're Wendell Palmer. You grab the handset off the telephone base. I seize the base. You twist it out of my hand by turning your body—so. Now you dial 'O' for the operator. You are going to yell 'Police!' and give your address when she answers. I find myself back of you with no weapon handy. I either have no gun or no time or perhaps no desire to draw my gun and fire. I see the telephone base. I pick it up, lift it high in air with both hands and bring it down with all my might on your head before you can contact the operator. You fall on the floor and die."

"Can't we leave that to the imagination?" Stivers pleaded.

"Yes, but it leaves me, the murderer, with the telephone base like this. I put it down and quickly replace the handset while the operator's voice calls in vain. I am too excited to think of the fingerprints I've left on the base of the phone and my thumbs make no prints you see because only their sides touch the curve of the top of the base. See?"

A PLAYWRIGHT

"I see. I guess that was just about the way it was. You're some playwright and a real actor."

"Now," said Queripel, "I'll ask you to lift the eight fingerprints I've left on this telephone."

This was a matter of only a few minutes, then Queripel studied the convoluted dust sticking to the tape. He compared it with the blown-up prints of Paul Moody's eight fingers.

"Not much alike, eh?" Stivers asked.

"Not much," said Queripel. "Now could I have another look at those Moody prints you took in his studio?"

Stivers fetched them out.

Stivers had to gloat a little: "They seem to tell the story, don't they?"

Martin Queripel nodded his head and smiled.

Women Fliers Win

ALBERTA OIL REPORT

Peace River Oil Picture Stimulated By Whitelaw

By C. V. MYERS
CALGARY.—The warm Peace River grew red hot today with the announcement by Shell Oil Co. that the Shell B. A. White-law No. 1 brought in oil at the rate of 500 to 600 barrels a day in the latest test.

MARKET REVIEW

The Triassic gas-bearing sand was 300 feet thick. Following penetration of the Triassic, the Shell bit ground into lime, but it is not thought to have been Madison. The Madison is expected any time between the present depth of 4,000 feet and 4,300 feet.

The Shell B. A. Whitelaw well is probably the liveliest wildcat yet drilled in Alberta. As production horizons it still has the Madison and Upper and Middle Devonian.

The Normandville well, 35 miles to the southeast, is thought to be producing from the Middle Devonian as contrasted to Upper Devonian production at Leduc, Redwater, Golden Spike and Stettler.

Summer Schedule Opening Between Sidney, Anacortes

Summer schedule between Anacortes and Sidney via the scenic San Juan Island route goes into effect Friday, the Puget Sound Navigation Co. has announced. The Mv. Kiklidati will swing into service to augment present sailings by her sisterships, Mv. Nisqually, and give two trips each way daily between the U.S. and Canadian ports.

Jap Mine Found At Island Tip

A Japanese mine has been discovered at the south end of a beach on Cox Island, off the northern end of Vancouver Island, naval authorities reported today.

F.B.I. Men Shoot Down Portland Bank Robber

Agent Wounded In Arm As Fusillade Of Shots Rips Up And Down Street

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—A bank robber was shot down today by F.B.I. agents as he fled the First National Bank's southeast branch.

One agent was wounded in an arm in the fusillade of shots that ripped up and down the street as the gunman fired at the officers with a .45 calibre sub-machine gun.

Police tentatively identified him as Wayne Long, 25, released only a day ago from the Oregon State prison.

When the shooting ended, he lay sprawled on the street between parked cars.

Earlier in the bank, he had forced 25 to 50 persons to back against the wall when he pointed the gun at the ceiling and pulled the trigger.

Bank Manager Lewis Wiltshire escaped into the street and shouted the alarm.

"An F.B.I. agent started firing from a block away," Wiltshire said. "They must have been waiting for him."

The robber ran across the street, and dashed between parked cars. He returned the fire, wounding one of the agents in the right arm.

Then another agent ran up and opened fire. His second shot felled the robber who struggled

Permit Given For Hospital

A permit authorizing construction of an addition to St. Joseph's Hospital to cost $500,000 was issued by the city building inspector today.

H. Whitaker is the architect and Sullivan Construction Company of Vancouver, the contractors.

Bernatchez Deputy Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—One of Canada's Second World War heroes will be the army's next deputy chief of staff.

Headquarters announced today that Brig. J. P. E. Bernatchez, 39, of Quebec City, will take over the post Aug. 1, succeeding Brig. W. J. Megill, veteran soldier.

Brig. Megill's new appointment has not yet been announced.

Brig. Bernatchez commanded the Royal 22nd Regiment in Italy during the last war. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order by Canada and the Chevalier de Legion d'Honneur and the Croix de Guerre Avec Palme by France.

On return to Canada, he commanded the army's Quebec City headquarters and later took over the prairie command at Winnipeg.

Japs Not Talking

TOKYO (AP)—Usually voluble Japanese, who like to sound off on world affairs, were silent today on British Commonwealth conference proposals of a "soft" peace for Japan. Said one: "We don't want to say anything that will make the British change their mind."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE is hereby given that all persons who deem themselves affected by the provisions of the proposed "ZONING BY-LAW, AMENDMENT BY-LAW, 1950, No. 3" of the Corporation of the District of Saanich will be afforded an opportunity to be heard on the matters contained therein, before the Municipal Council at a public hearing to be held in the Council Chamber, Municipal Hall, Royal Oak, on MONDAY, June 19th, 1950, at 7:45 p.m. A copy of the proposed By-law may be inspected at the Municipal Hall, Royal Oak, between the hours of nine o'clock a.m. and five o'clock p.m., on any week day except Saturday.
JOHN B. TRIBE,
Municipal Clerk.

The above amendment will have the effect of permitting the erection of semi-detached two-family dwellings on Pt. of Lot 4, Section 2, Victoria District, Plan 588, situated on Maplewood Road, Tantalus Drive and Pike Street, providing each unit of such two-family dwelling contains 1000 square feet floor area, living space and further providing that 12,000 square feet of ground shall be provided for each such two-family dwelling.

He charged that under Moscow's direction Communists on a date to be decided are plotting to poison water supplies, cut off power and murder whites who stand in the way of the Communists.

J. G. N. Strauss, newly-elected leader of the opposition United Party, argued against the bill because he said it would give the Governor-General power to outlaw any group he feared was Communist.

He said the bill "in seeking to combat Communist totalitarianism creates a fascist despotism."

People's Deposits Banks Of Canada At New High

MONTREAL (CP)—J. U. Boyer, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, said today that more Canadians have more money in the chartered banks than ever before and the average account is higher.

In an address at the annual meeting of the association, Mr. Boyer said that at March 31, 1950, the public had $6,971,000,000 in nearly 8,000,000 deposit accounts. This was an increase of $426,000,000, or 6 1/2 per cent, in a year.

Savings were up $908,000,000 and current accounts $118,000,000. The number of accounts increased 365,000 between Sept. 30, 1948, and Sept. 30, 1949, and the average deposit was $873 compared with $828 in 1948.

In savings alone, the average account moved up from $532 in 1945 to $637 in 1949.

Total deposits in chartered banks reached a record at March 31 of $8,307,000,000, a gain of 5 1/2 per cent in a year. Bank assets also set a record at $8,838,000,000, an increase of nearly 5 per cent over those at March 31, 1949.

Current loans in Canada, an index of business activity, stood at $2,218,000,000 at March 31, up $192,000,000 in the year and more than double the corresponding figure for 1940.

Debts to individual accounts, an indication of the high level of business, reached $28,460,000 in the first four months of the year, compared with $27,040,000,000 in the same period of 1949.

Chartered bank investments in securities of all kinds were $4,453,000,000, up $168,000,000 over the same date last year.

Referring to job-creating investment opportunities in Canada, Mr. Boyer gave as an illustration the $150,000,000 in venture capital being spent by 240 companies in oil development in western Canada

Expert Says Russia May Have Six A-Bombs Ready

War Not Imminent Though, Since Reds Lack Global War Facilities, Professor Believes

NEW YORK (AP)—A military expert Wednesday quoted an unnamed "authority" as saying Russia may have as many as six atom bombs on hand by this fall and may soon be producing them at the rate of 25 a year.

The authority was quoted by Navy Commander William T. Greenhalgh, professor of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces in an address to some 350 selected civilians and reserve officers.

Other authorities have other ideas, he added without amplification and without offering any conclusions of his own.

The commander said deserting Russian aviators have told of 44 airfields in East Siberia—a logical takeoff point for any attack on the northwestern U.S.

He estimated Russia might have 19,000 war planes capable of use in combat, plus a reserve of 10,000. Aircraft factories might turn out as many as 60,000 a year if necessary, he added.

Her guided missile and rocket program is about the equal that the U.S. the navy man went on, and the Red Army has 40,000 tanks to our 7,000.

But, he added, Russia lacks facilities for a global war and does not have the know-how for mass production of big bombers.

Therefore, he told his audience, war is not imminent or inevitable.

A permit authorizing construction of a five-suite apartment at 1811 Oak Bay Avenue to cost $20,000 was also issued by the department Wednesday, D. C. Frame is the architect.

Diamonds, hardest of gems, are used in rock drilling and in cutting and polishing steel.

WOMAN GOES TO JAIL, BUT PAYS NO FINE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fifteen days in jail rather than a $25 fine was chosen Wednesday by a Vancouver housewife convicted of wilful damage.

Mrs. Elsie Gill, 37-year-old laborer's wife, was charged with breaking a $24.96 lamp in a dispute over a $1 refund from electrical dealer Jack Koven.

Mrs. Gill said the hotplate element she bought wouldn't work. Koven declined a refund but offered to exchange it for another item of the same value. It was charged Mrs. Gill swept the lamp off a table in the argument.

"I'll take the jail, your worship," she said quickly on sentencing. "As you wish," said the magistrate.

Soviet Agents Visit Ruhr Trying To Swing Election

FRANKFURT (AP)—Germany's Communists plunged today into a feverish campaign to win support in the mighty Ruhr industrial valley.

They announced: 1. The imminent arrival of Communist dignitaries from the Soviet zone to help to win votes in the election next Sunday for a Ruhr state legislature.

2. A "peace rally" in Essen next Sept. 1—a rally the Communists hope to make a replica of their Russian-protected White Antidote march in Berlin.

The announcements were regarded in some Allied quarters as possibly the start of a Communist attempt to stir up discontent in the industrial heart of western Germany.

On the other hand, some observers believed the Communists were merely trying to hold their grip on thousands of followers who recently have been losing sympathy with their cause.

In the last week 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 Communist posters have been splashed at night across the length and breadth of the sprawling Ruhr.

They demanded the withdrawal of U.S., British and French occupation troops.

The strength of the party will be tested Sunday when 9,000,000 Germans will elect a legislature in the Ruhr state of North Rhine-Westphalia.

FLASH FLOOD

In a flash flood following a heat wave and heavy rain, the ditch got blocked with debris and backed up into the mine with a rush, carrying tons of debris with it.

At Canmore, some basements were reported flooded in the town and along the highway. The Bow River was still within its banks except at a few points where it overflowed a few inches. Creeks in the district were reported swollen as violent rains and warm weather in the mountains washed away one of the heaviest snowfalls in recent years.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coast League president Clarence Rowland slapped $50 fines today on three league managers for profanity and delaying ball games.

San Francisco's Lefty O'Doul and Seattle's Paul Richards were disciplined for the same bad game—the first half of a double header last Sunday. Charlie Dressen of Oakland drew his fine for rowing with an umpire at San Diego Tuesday.

SIDNEY—H. Cuthbert Holmes of Victoria was re-elected president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island at the conclusion of the two-day annual convention here today.

Alan McLean of Campbell River was re-elected vice-president and George I. Warren of Victoria was again named secretary-treasurer.

Rescue workers move in to search the still-smoking wreckage of a twin-engine patrol plane which was transformed into a flaming death trap for nine U.S. navy men as it burst into flames after crashing while attempting to come in on an emergency landing at Quonset Point, R.I. Pilot and co-pilot, only survivors, were badly injured.

Break In Haze Lets Honolulu See Blue Sky

HONOLULU (AP)—A vast and mysterious haze that has blanketed the middle Pacific all week cleared away from Honolulu and at least part of the Hawaiian Islands today.

Clear blue sky was visible through small breaks in the clouds over Honolulu. Scientists said the haze had nothing to do with an atomic mist. Geiger counters disclosed no radioactivity.

(Dr. F. Schramm, a Honolulu health department official, was quoted in a U.P. dispatch as saying an analysis of the haze indicated it was for some distant volcanic eruption.)
